The Wailing Wall.
Russia Moves.
Going Up.
High Finance.

—By Arthur Brisbane—
(Copyright, 1931)

THE English Commission ruling the Holy Land decides that the "Wailing Wall," sacred to the ancient sorrows of the Jews, is the absolute property of the Arabs. The Commission decides, however, that the Jews must be allowed to go there and wail, without interference.

BRISBANE

Historical advisers say that the Commission could not decide otherwise, since the Arabs have been in possession of the Holy Land for some seven hundred years, ever since they established the fact that crusades, like other wars, do not pay and cannot be waged profitably.

IF Russia will kindly pause and let "conservative business and finance" get their respective breaths, business and finance will be much obliged.

Russia is now going into the whaling business, has ordered special whaling ships and will develop new whaling territory. That is good news for our soap makers. Bad news for the whales.

The worst of it is that, while the United States, pointing to Russia, says, "I wouldn't be seen playing with that bad little boy," other countries do play with Russia. For example, the Norwegian government

Ship Talks to Trapped Sailors

At Least Eight Men Known to Be Alive On Sunk Submarine

Six Men Who Escaped Tell Remarkable Story of Experience—Many Rescue Ships on Scene

Associated Press Cable

WEI-HAI-WEI, China, June 10—The mother ship "Medway" was understood today to be in communication with eight members of the crew of the sunken submarine "Poseidon" and hopes to be able to rescue them.

Others who went down with the submersible in the Yellow Sea yesterday were said to be in a different compartment and there was practically no hope of saving them. A Japanese salvage tug reached the scene, off the northern coast of the Shantung Peninsula, and began grappling operations which are expected to raise the craft within 24 hours. Two Chinese servants also were reported to be entombed.

SIX SEAMEN HAD REMARKABLE ESCAPE

The story of six men who made a remarkable escape from the submarine was revealed Wednesday. Two members of the crew emerged from the submersible two and one-half hours after it had been struck by the steamer Yuta and four others reached the surface more than three hours afterward, all through the Davis escape apparatus. They were picked up by boats from British warships attached to the British far east fleet.

Whether or not these rescues affected the casualty list was not known. The British admiralty said 18 men were missing and that 31 were saved, two of whom later died from their injuries. Other advices said there were only 18 aboard.

SHIPS TO RESCUE

The submarine's parent ship "Medway," the aircraft carrier "Hermes" and the cruisers "Berwick" and "Cumberland" went to the scene, about ten miles off the north shore of the Shantung peninsula, and located the wreck in about 120 feet of water.

When the "Yuta" struck the "Poseidon," engaged in training manoeuvres, she tore a huge hole in the latter's side and she sank rapidly. The survivors were picked up by boats from the steamer, with the exception of those saved later.

It is possible the United States submarine salvage vessel "Pigeon," stationed at Tsingto as a part of the Asiatic fleet, will be asked to assist in raising the wreck. The "Pigeon" carries equipment for deep-sea work and a number of expert divers.

NO POLICY ON UNEMPLOYM'T OUTLINED YET

J. S. Woodsworth Says Gov't. Not Alive to Situation

Canadian Press

OTTAWA, Ont., June 10—Charging the Government with failing to take proper cognizance of the unemployment and distress conditions and delivering a slashing attack on the Bennett budget, James S. Woodsworth, Labor member for Winnipeg North-Centre, featured the budget debate in the House of Commons Tuesday.

Demanding to know when the Government unemployment policy would be announced and charging the administration with not being alive to the situation existing in Canada, the Laborite laid at the administration's door failure to relieve the sufferings of the workless of Canada. Winnipeg, in which a short time ago there were 18,000 unemployed, was nearly bankrupt attempting to care for them. A Montreal newspaper was quoted as saying the unemployed of that city faced "starvation or suicide." What did the Government propose to do, repeated Mr. Woodsworth.

CANADIAN FACES DEATH SENTENCE

To Hang in New Zealand For Murder of Settler

Canadian Press Cable
Via Reuters

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, June 10.—Sentence of death was passed on Reginald Thomas Corman Rickards, a Canadian who arrived in New Zealand seven years ago and who has been standing trial on a charge of murdering Arthur Rossiter, 72-year-old settler, at Kaipaki. While finding Rickards guilty, the jury added a recommendation for mercy. In pronouncing the sentence of death, the judge promised to forward the recommendation to the proper authorities. Rickards was engaged to the daughter of the settler last August. Miss Rossiter broke off the engagement. Some time later Rickards was arrested at Tauranga on a charge of assaulting his former fiancee.

While awaiting trial, he escaped from prison. Police who subsequently visited the Rossiter farm found the old man dead and Rickards on the premises.

Beauharnois Power Probe Approved By House Of Commons

Canadian Press

OTTAWA, Ont., June 10.—House of Commons today approved the appointment of the committee which will enquire into the Beauharnois situation, and also the terms of reference to that committee. By unanimous consent of the house a motion to this effect was advanced without the formality of previous notice being given.

Replying to Hon. Ernest Lapointe (Lib.-Quebec East), the Prime Minister declared the provinces affected would have a watching brief in the investigation and wherever the enquiry touched upon matters involving the province they would have a right to make representations. The committee itself would have to determine what matters were or were not within the jurisdiction of parliament in the course of the enquiry.

BEATTY WILL BE ASKED TO OUTLINE PLAN

To Give Details of Agricultural Credits Scheme to House

Canadian Press

OTTAWA, Ont., June 10.—E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, will be called before the banking and commerce committee of the House of Commons to give details of his scheme to provide credit for western farmers going into livestock, through the Dominion Agricultural Credit Company.

The committee began consideration of the resolution of W. T. Lucas (U. F. A., Camrose) favoring establishment of a system of intermediate credits for agriculture. In order to get all the information available on the question, the committee decided to invite Mr. Beatty to appear before it next week.

DETAILS SOUGHT

At the suggestion of O. Gagnon (Cons., Dorchester), the committee will also invite an officer of the Caisse Populaire of the province of Quebec to give details of the system of rural banks in operation in that province. Mr. Gagnon said Quebec had had a system of providing farm credits in use for some 25 years which had worked very satisfactorily, and thought the committee should study it.

Explaining his resolution, Mr. Lucas said there were two forms of cre-

Claim to Recover $3,988 From Vancouver Couple Fails

Canadian Press

VICTORIA, B.C., June 10.—A suit instituted by Miss Sarah E. Gibbs and her father, William Robert Gibbs, to recover $3,988, the proceeds from a winning ticket in a racing sweepstakes, from Edith O. Cann and Arthur R Cann failed in the Supreme Court here Wednesday.

Mr. Justice Gregory, who conducted the trial, dismissed the action with csots. While the decision of His Lordship disposes of the claim of Miss Gibbs and her father, the constitutional aspect of the case was not at issue in the decision and remains still to be settled.

There is another claim put forward for the money on the constitutional aspect of the case, as under the Criminal Code money so won may be forfeited to one who takes proceedings against the winner. This second claim is in the name of C. E. Sontey. There

Creditor Is Outwitted by Farmer 'Ring'

Canadian Press Cable

HAVERHILL, Suffolk, June 10.—The story of how a group of farmers outwitted a creditor yesterday gave all England a laugh today.

A farm tractor at $2.75 and cows at $1.50 apiece were typical prices at an auction, after which the discomfited auctioneer retired with barely $30 for the whole stock of a 700-acre farm.

On the other hand the owner of the farm was the most joyful person present.

The farm had been seized for a debt of $500 which the farmer was unable to meet through the slump in wheat prices. Sympathetic fellow farmers, hearing of the debtor's plight, gathered from far and near. They formed a "ring," made farcical bids, and afterward returned the purchases to their original owner.

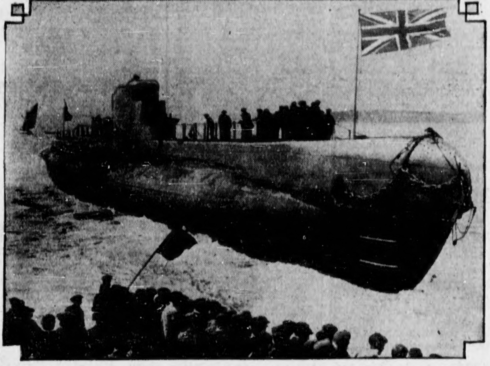
Canadian Press

LIVERPOOL, N.S., June 10—J. Ross Byrne, youthful Liverpool barrister, was cleared by a South Shore grand jury Wednesday of all charges in connection with the landing and shipment of a carload of liquor here last winter. True bills were brought in against Captain George Downey, of Cornwall, Ont., on all four counts in the indictment.

BRITISH SUB SUNK IN 120 FEET WATER



Above is the "Poseidon," British submarine sunk Tuesday in the Yellow Sea off Wei-Hai-Wei, China, with the loss so far of two lives. Eighteen men are reported missing, eight of whom are still alive and have been in communication with one of the rescue ships now rushing salvage operations. The sub sank following a collision with the steamer Yuta, and 31 members of the crew were saved at the time of the disaster, two later dying from their injuries. The picture shows the launching of the doomed sub.

WOULD RIDICULE TORY CAMPAIGN

Laborites Suggest Probe of U.S. Camps

Associated Press Cable

LONDON, June 10.—Attempt was made by Labor back-benchers in the House of Commons Tuesday afternoon to ridicule the Conservative campaign against Russian timber by drawing a parallel between labor conditions in Russia and in some United States timber camps. An investigation of United States camps by the British government was solemnly suggested.

William Leach, Bradford Laborite, asked the president of the Board of Trade whether his attention had been drawn to "conditions of labor in lumber camps and timber areas of Florida, where convict labor is leased by the government to contractors for $20 monthly."

Rt. Hon. William Graham, president of the Board of Trade, said the government would take no steps to prohibit importations and would not consider the advisability of asking the United States for permission to investigate labor conditions.

ABOARD THE SUBMARINE NAUTILUS at Sea, June 10—More than a thousand miles from New York, plowing a lone, long trail, our strange craft is making a good ten knots headway. Both engines are turning over at surprising speed and all is well.

As I write this dispatch, the position of the Nautilus is Latitude 40.40 north, Longitude 47.50 west. We made 250 miles the last 24 hours.

Our escort, the ice patrol cutter Pontichartrain with Captain Stromberg in command and bearing a band of newspaper nad movie men, turned back at six o'clock Tuesday evening.

GLAD OF COMPANY BUT NEEDED NO HELP

We were glad of their company that far. Fortunately we did not need their aid and now that we are by ourselves there is a brighter look, if that is possible, on the faces of the crew. They are a great crowd. They like to feel that from now on, God willing, we will do the job alone. There might come a time, of course, when we will need help and we will be grateful for it as we have been for the great help we have received in the past. But on this vessel, the strangest no doubt that has swept across the Atlantic since the war-time raiders were recalled, one can sense the determined desire for accomplishment. We are as a child when it first walks alone.

Britain Will Not Call Debt Parley

Associated Press Cable

LONDON, June 10.—Premier Ramsay MacDonald told the House of Commons this afternoon that the government has no present intention of making any moves toward an international war debt conference.

Asked by a Conservative member whether he considered "calling a conference of the powers interested in international settlements with a view to mutual cancellation of obligations on the largest possible scale," the Premier replied, "the attitude of this country in regard to war debts is well known and action on the lines suggested would not in the present circumstances serve any useful purpose."

B. C. SHIPPING STRIKE LOOMS

Walkout of Masters and Mates Threatened

Canadian Press

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 10.—A general tie-up of all British Columbia coast shipping looms as a possibility as the result of a strike ballot given by masters and mates of the Canadian Merchants Service Guild in support of men in these positions in the tugboat section, who have been on strike since April 21.

The strike vote covers all passenger ships, freighters and oil tankers in provincial waters, with the exception of two companies, the North Vancouver Ferries Ltd., and the British Yukon Shipping Company, who have agreements which cannot be terminated until the end of the year.

British Columbia shipping would be paralyzed, should an agreement not be reached, but it is generally believed that negotiations will bring an end to the threatening situation before it develops serious consequences.

The board of management of the Canadian Merchant Service Guild, armed with the strike vote of the members, will probably meet tomorrow night to consider further action.

With generally cool and fair weather reported for today prospects are now much better than they were over the week-end.

DUTY ON U.S. MAGAZINES IS APPROVED OF

Presbyterian Assembly Commends Action of Bennett Gov't.

Canadian Press

TORONTO, Ont., June 10.—General assembly of the Presbyterian church, in session here last night, commended the action of the Bennett government in imposing a prohibitive duty on American magazines and periodicals.

A resolution introduced by Rev. Dr. W. H. Leathem of Ottawa said the Presbyterian church welcomed "all legislation that may restrict the entrance of low-class magazines into the homes of Canada." Dr. Leathem claimed there were no such magazines published in Canada, but certain publications of a "pernicious character" came from the United States and had acquired a tremendous circulation here.

Rev. Dr. S. Banks Nelson of Hamilton asked for a resolution to condemn the "sweepstakes bill" now being considered by parliament. "I was told by Senator Wright on Saturday that it would certainly pass," he remarked. "To legalize sweepstakes however each province will have to pass concurrent legislation. Thus if it is illegal in Ontario, our people will probably send their money to Montreal, and Quebec will milk the Ontario cow just as Dublin milks the English cow now." Resolution on this subject will be considered by the assembly Wednesday.

Gold Discoveries in B.C. Attracting Attention

STRIKE MAY BRING RUSH TO CARIBOO

Two Parties of Vancouver Men Now Investigating "Finds"

Canadian Press

VANCOUVER, B.C., June 10.—Reported gold discoveries in two widely-separated districts in British Columbia are attracting wide attention throughout the province.

In the northern part of the province on the Nation river, a tributary of the Parsnip river, about 110 miles northwest of Prince George, the reported placer gold discovery has attracted two precious metal seeking parties from Vancouver. Meanwhile news of a rich ore strike on Lowhee, Ol Vow mountain, near Barkerville, 200 miles north of Ashcroft in the Cariboo, has been brought to Vancouver by four directors of the Cariboo Gold Quartz Company, which for several years has been carrying on development and research work in the neighborhood of Barkerville, where the ore body is known to be approximately twenty-five miles in length.

Dr. W. B. Burnett, of Vancouver, one of the party just returned from Barkerville, said that in the opinion of hard rock men, the strike may bring on a rush to Cariboo rivalling that of the early sixties.

Hon. W. V. Shelly, president of the provincial executive council, headed a party of Vancouver men into the Nation river district Saturday, while four more men left for the north by plane Wednesday. A plane will go into Nation river at the end of this week to bring the Shelly party out. Until then, it is not expected that anything of a definite nature will be known concerning the strike in that district.

VANCOUVER, B.C., June 10.—Four Vancouver men interested in the reported placer gold discovery on Nation river, a tributary of Parsnip river in northern British Columbia, left Vancouver early Wednesday by airplane for the scene.

The machine, piloted by Captain E. C. W. Dobbin, carried as passengers I. B. Flater, F. S. Flater, W. R. Coulter and E. Mueller. Emil Kading is air engineer. The Flaters were formerly residents of Edmonton, Alta.

Hon. W. C. Shelly and his party, who left Vancouver by motor Friday, were flown from Prince George to Nation river on Saturday. The plane will return to Nation river late this week to bring the party out.

Midwinter was left on a lonely road near Calgary after the bandit-quartette had shot, robbed and bound him. Fatally wounded, Midwinter was brought to Calgary where he died two days later in hospital. Radko and Jones were later arrested, the former in a U.S. penitentiary, the latter in jail at Lethbridge. Allen was captured at Carnation, Wash.

Baldwin was convicted of the murder of Miss Maud Law, fatally wounded in a shooting affray at her apartment in Calgary Christmas Day, 1930. She died in hospital on December 29. The shooting climaxed a quarrel which followed charges made by Baldwin that Miss Law had attempted to break his engagement to Miss Maud McWilliams, half-sister of Miss Law.

At his trial Baldwin claimed his mind was "a blank" Christmas Day, and declared he had no recollection of the shooting. A neurologist testified that the murderer might have been suffering from "clouded consciousness" but this evidence was contradicted by a neutral psychiatrist called by the Crown. A petition asserting Baldwin was not normal mentally, and asking for clemency, was sent to the minister of justice at Ottawa, but was denied.

Liberal member for New Westminster. He criticized remarks made by John T. Hackett (Cons.-Stanstead), in which the financial positions of the Canadian Pacific and the government-owned road were contrasted. The financial position of the Canadian Pacific, submitted the British Columbia member, would not be so favorable if it were compelled to return to the Dominion the concessions granted. Competition from the National road had resulted in the Canadian Pacific becoming less "arrogant" throughout the west.

The fuel policy of the Government, as outlined in the Budget, would be of little advantage to the coal industry, suggested Mr. Reid. At the same time, he did not believe the Federal absorption of five cents of the cost of transporting export grain, would assist the Western farmer.

Praise for the budget came from John R. MacNicol, Conservative member for Toronto North-West. He estimated production in the iron and steel industry would total $50,000,000 a year due to expansion through higher tariffs. This would mean steady work for 12,500 men.

Adjournment of the budget debate was made by George McDade, Conservative member for Northumberland, who will take the floor this afternoon.

One of the most contentious bills to come before parliament this session received third reading yesterday. It was the Government bill to amend the Copyright Act and during its discussion, Hon. Charles H. Cahan, Secretary of State expressed the hope a general revision of the Copyright law would be undertaken.

During private members' hour, Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, intimated a general revision of the bankruptcy law would be undertaken at the next session.

SOLLOWAY-MILLS TRIAL PROCCEDS

Youthful Private Secretary Leaves Court

Canadian Press

TORONTO, Ont., June 10.—Objections to the presence in court of H. Hendrickson, youthful private secretary of I. W. C. Solloway, led to his departure Wednesday at the trial of Solloway and Harvey Mills before Mr. Justice Garrow and an assize court jury. The former partners of the brokerage firm of Solloway, Mills and Company, are undergoing hearing on 15 charges of theft laid against them.

Crown evidence was not completed Wednesday when the court rose, and it is possible the case may continue until the end of the week.

Hendrickson had occupied a seat beside prisoners' dock throughout the trial. Yesterday W. N. Tilley, K.C., crown prosecutor, objected to his presence in the court room when all witnesses were supposed to be excluded. Mr. Tilley did not know whether or not he would be called as a witness, so Hendrickson left.

Books of the firm were "not very accurate," up to November, 1929, testified William Jacobs, who said he had been in charge of the securities "cage" for the company. Volume of business at that time might have been responsible for the frequent errors, he thought.

Says Regimental Colors Insulted

Canadian Press Cable

LONDON, June 10.—The great Irish sweepstakes is still fertile in revelations. Sir William Davison, Conservative member of the house of commons, will ask the government in the house today whether it is aware that customs officials recently seized the old green flag of the Second Connaught Rangers on its way from Ireland to the Old Comrades' association dinner in London on the ground that Irish sweep tickets were inclosed with the regimental colors.

"Has an apology been sent with respect to this affront to the colors of this regiment?" Sir William will ask.

WINNIPEG, June 10.—Lord Duncannon, son of the Earl of Bessborough, Governor-General of Canada, continued his journey west from Winnipeg Wednesday to ride the pony trails of Banff and pay his first visit to the Canadian Rockies as a guest of Banff Springs hotel.

"I am greatly impressed with the wonderful scenic beauties of the east," said the tall, fair young Englishman, who arrived in Winnipeg Sunday night, "and I haven't the slightest doubt from what I have heard I will be even more impressed with the Rockies."

Lord Duncannon, 18 years of age, is accompanied by his cousin, Hon. Arthur Ponsonby, and Major Bollam.

Find Hay-Fever Sandfly In U.S.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 10.—Hay-Fever caused by a sandfly is one of the newest-discovered ills at the American Medical Association annual meeting.

Lundbeck, whose birthday is today, kept as busy as the rest. We have had no time as yet for a celebration.

However, this afternoon I did notice a group get out their bridge cards and play a rubber or two in their off watch.

Our radio is working splendidly, and the telephone as well. We exchanged conversation with the ice patrol cutter just before she left.

On board the Ponchartrain they had the crew lined up before a loud speaker so that all heard Captain Danenhauer through their skipper thank them for their services. Then several members of our crew exchanged messages.

NO SPARE ROOM

On board there is scarcely room to swing a cat by the tail. We are busy carpentering, fitting and painting in the lab. Ray Meyers, our radio man, can scarcely get into his cubby hole.

The weather promises good going ahead. By midnight we should turn at an angle to the north.

Wednesday night at the latest we should know whether we can afford to call in at London for additional scientific gear and to keep a word of promise given early in the preparation of the north pole expedition.

One ship passed us going westward Tuesday afternoon. The seas are still sloppy and the watch on the bridge has little comfort, below deck it is dry but the rolling makes the work of stowing strenuous. Captain Danenhauer is well pleased with the Nautilus as a sea boat, in fact she is more seaworthy than many sea vessels. With the trimming of the tanks she can be made to assume any angle, and Engineer Shaw is busy shifting oil to the after tanks to bring the boat more out of water.

Notwithstanding the fairly dirty weather of the last two days the hard work keeps up the appetites of all on board and the cook and mess boys are kept busy serving good things to eat. Our messing is on the cafeteria plan, everyone walks by and gets his share, some take their plates to their quarters, while others stand about the galley to eat their meals.

With our electric refrigerator we are able to keep things fresh, and the fare is more or less as we would get on shore.

dit available for farmers. Long term land mortgages and short term bank loans. Bank loans did not meet the need of the farmer because they were granted only for a period of from two to four months and the period of turnover in farm operations was from six months to a year. Some system was needed whereby farmers could secure stable credit for a longer period.

There were serious difficulties in the way of working out such a scheme, said Col. H. A. Mullins (Cons., Marquette). Many schemes had been tried and had failed.

"I would not give a farmer a bunch of cows and put my money in them under any consideration," he said. "The calves will get away from you and they will milk the cows. And when you come to demand your money you will have nothing but a bunch of old things worth nothing."

ANXIOUS TO HELP

He was anxious to support any scheme which would help western agriculture, said Col. Mullins, but it would have to be worked out on a business basis. A great deal could be done, he thought, in assisting farmers to feed young cattle. He knew of lots of men who would lend money on young steers at five per cent, but he was doubtful about financing the breeding of cattle.

The committee had to decide whether agriculture in Western Canada was worth continuing, said H. E. Spencer (U. F. A., Battle River). It could not go on unless credits were provided in some way.

B.C. Has Million Dollar Rainfall

Canadian Press

VICTORIA, B.C., June 10.—Rain which swept across Vancouver Island and the lower mainland and into the Okanagan Valley Tuesday is literally worth a million dollars or more to British Columbia agriculture, officials of the department of agriculture said. It will extend the strawberry season, increase root crops and keep pasturage green for dairy herds.

Forestry officials rejoiced, that it would reduce the fire hazard.

SCHOOL BOARD MEMBERS WERE NOT NOTIFIED

Meeting of Advisory Committee Called Into Question

Scorching attack on the action of school board officials in calling a meeting of the advisory committee on the school buildings by-law without notifying all members of the board, featured the regular meeting of the Edmonton Public school board in the Civic Block Tuesday evening. Termed a "private meeting in a public office", the action brought up a hot dispute among the members.

"No private meeting should be held in a public board's offices without all members of the board being notified," said Trustee S. A. G. Barnes.

COMPLETES DUTIES

Some time ago the advisory board which dealt with the proposed new school buildings under the chairmanship of Dr. R. C. Wallace, president of the University of Alberta, was dissolved, it being felt that this board had completed its duties in its advisory capacity.

Shortly after this, an advisory committee was formed, composed of several of the members who formerly were on the advisory board.

In explanation, Trustee A. T. Cushing stated that he had invited the committee and some of the school board members to further study the school by-law. Several meetings have already been held.

Another matter which caused some altercation was a motion moved by Trustee Cushing that $600 of the board's finances be spent for publicity purposes in connection with the placing of information with regard to the school by-law before the people.

The board was asked by one member where it had got the right to use this money for this purpose.

"If you are going to give money to those in favor of the new school buildings for publicity purposes, why not give those members opposed to the project a sum also for similar purposes?" asked Trustee Barnes.

It was finally decided to refer this matter to the board's solicitor to discover whether the board had any legal right to use the sum mentioned for publicity purposes.

A notice of motion was given by Trustee S. A. G. Barnes in which it was stated that whereas there are 25 vacant class rooms in the city schools, that grade nine classes be established in such public schools where the vacancies exist, to be a part of the regular school organization.

The motion reads, in part, as follows:

"Whereas there are approximately 25 vacant classrooms, giving accommodation for about 1000 pupils in our school buildings at the present time, and

"Whereas our public enrolment had an increase of only 25 pupils in September, 1930 and

"Whereas the Grade 9 work being now carried on in King Edward, Highlands and other public schools has proved a pronounced success from the standpoint of both parents and pupils in these communities, and

"Whereas the advisory committee recommend that a system of special Grade 9 classes could be studied to advantage by this board;

"Therefore be it resolved that the pupils of the city be distributed in such a way that beginning with September next these rooms shall be occupied and where at all possible Grade 9 classes be taught in these rooms."

Drilling Crew On Way To Location

The drilling and rig building crew of the Crudome Oil Company, Toronto, left the city Wednesday noon bound for Smith, on the Athbasca, where the company intends working a lease it possesses in that area.

The crew was headed by Roy Berray, of Wainwright, and Harry Gordon, of Turner Valley. The equipment, brought from the Wainwright field, was loaded on a truck and oil officials believed the crew would arrive at the field Wednesday night.

H. E. McCorkindale, field superintendent for the Crudome Oils, is in charge of field operations.

district last night had been followed today by light clouds and sunshine. Since Monday the weather in the southern part of the province has continued warm and growth of vegetation has been little short of phenomenal.

One of the best rains to fall at the most opportune time since 1916, was reported to the Bulletin from Three Hills this morning. The report stated that one and one-half inches of rain fell during the night, bringing the total precipitation for the past 48 hours up to two inches. This rainfall was termed a "life saver" for the Three Hills district as the crops were rapidly becoming dried out.

Another report received by the Bulletin from Peace River indicates a "million dollar" downfall in the Grande Prairie district. Wednesday morning .25 inches fell in a very few hours. This moisture with the temperature reading 66 degrees has made a wonderful change in the appearance of the grain fields.

Despatches from Regina this afternoon say the whole district is receiving a good, soaking rain, not very heavy, but steady, and with every prospect of its continuing for some time. In Manitoba heavy clouds have appeared, and there is every likelihood of rain in the Brandon and Winnipeg districts.

Canadian Press

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., June 10—Heavy rains soaked southern Alberta again last night for the second day in succession bringing half an inch to an inch of precipitation in all sections, and making an inch or more within the 48 hours. Foremost district reports 1.85 inches of rain so far in June. At Lethbridge .41 inch fell bringing the June total to 1.31 inches as against a total of 1.42 inches in June last year. Crops are now in splendid condition to go into the heavy growing stage.

Flier to Make Survey Canada's Northern Coast

Canadian Press Cable

LONDON, June 10.—Major Sydney Cotton, British aviator, announced Wednesday that an attempt would be made shortly to conduct a preliminary air survey of the uncharted coast of northern Canada and Hudson Bay in hopes of finding a new and speedier route for grain ships. Major Cotton will leave England in a fortnight's time for the new adventure. He will be accompanied by his wife, who will act as co-pilot.

Major Cotton recently started for Greenland to attempt to find Augustine Courtauld, young scientist who was lost on the ice cap. However, before he arrived Courtauld had been reached by a relief party which was searching for him.

Meteor Fragment Falls In Ohio

Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., June 10.—A huge fragment of a meteor was reported by residents to have fallen on a farm near Malinta, about 35 miles southwest of here, early today. The shock of the impact broke windows within a radius of a half a mile and was felt in a number of northwestern Ohio towns.

It was reported the meteor was ten feet wide and five feet through. The report said it fell on a farm a quarter of a mile north of Malinta.

The telephone service was disrupted shortly after the crash and communication with Malinta was cut off. A woman, however, telephoned the report just before the service was stopped.

Buildings were shaken and windows rattled in a number of towns within a 40-mile radius.

Italian Government Replies To Pontiff

By JOHN EVANS
Associated Press
Correspondent

ROME, June 10.—The Italian government made its formal reply to two notes of protest from Pope Pius XI Wednesday, expressing regret at violence toward the pope and towards Catholics, but at the same time charging the Vatican with violation of the Lateran treaty and the concordat.

The regrets were said to be in such a form that they can scarcely be called definite excuses. The government failed to comply with the Vatican's demand for a formal apology. The reply set forth that the police are searching for the culprits responsible for the violence and promised that they would be punished.

The Vatican, it was expected, will ask a reply more to its liking, but both in government and Vatican circles there was a feeling things are on the mend.

is no announcement as yet with respect to what course will be followed by Mr. Sontey. His solicitor, P. R. Leighton, was not prepared to say following the termination of the Gibbs-Cann case just what course would be pursued.

The action tried yesterday set up a claim to the money on the score that there was really a partnership in the money and that therefore Miss Gibbs was entitled to the one-half which was set forward in the claim. A second claim was based on the ground that the code had been violated and sought to invoke the law in this respect for the forfeiture of the winnings.

On this last count Mr. Justice Gregory held that the claim which had been set up for plaintiffs in the case did not satisfy the requirements for the calling into action of this section of the code.

LONDON, June 10—Ten British golfers, composing the British Ryder cup team, sailed today for the United States and Columbus, O., where they will meet Walter Hagen's team of United States professionals June 26 and 27 in the international team competition.

"If we lose the cup it will be won by a very good team of golfers indeed", Charles A. Whitcombe, captain of the team, said as they left London for Southampton. "I'm not boasting when I say that in the nine men I have with me the very best golf in Great Britain is represented. There is not one who hasn't proved in the severest trials the Professional Golfers' Association could set that he is worthy of a place against the Americans."

Tells About Genius Of Rudyard Kipling

Associated Press Cable

LONDON, June 10—Rear Admiral L. M. Chandler (retired) of Washington, D.C., secretary of the Kipling Society of the United States, last night addressed the annual meeting of the Kipling Society of England and told the British what a genius he believed Rudyard Kipling to be.

"When one sees, as I have seen," he said, "a copy of 'Kim' lying on the living room table of a somewhat isolated New England farm house, occupied only by an elderly farmer and his wife, one can draw but a single inference. That is, that Mr. Kipling's writings, in one form or another, reach almost every home in the land where any reading is done."

THE SPIRIT OF 1807....

Perhaps the most constructive and certainly the most romantic episode of the development of Canada's great North West, was the formation in 1873, of the Royal North West Mounted Police. McCallum's, a veteran amongst Scots whiskies . . . had then passed its 66th milestone. Today, in its 125th year, it enjoys wider repute than ever as a genuine Scots Whisky of unvarying high quality . . . blended, aged-in-the-wood and BOTTLED in Scotland. Darling in Favor of Silver Conference

HAS PLAN TO PLACE SILVER ON GOLD LEVEL

Director of Midland Bank of London Returns to Ottawa

Canadian Press

OTTAWA, Ont., June 10.—It would be a wonderful thing for the world and a great advertisement for Canada if this country would call an international conference on stabilizing silver, said J. F. Darling, director of the Midland Bank of London, who returned to Ottawa Tuesday from Washington. Mr. Darling's proposal for a bi-metal standard would place silver alongside gold as a standard of currency, at one-twentieth its value.

United States would send representatives to Ottawa if a conference were called, Mr. Darling declared. Mr. Darling expects to sail for England at the end of the present week from Quebec and will probably have a further conference with Premier R. B. Bennett before he leaves.

United States has so much gold she could stabilize silver without any co-operation from other nations, Mr. Darling stated. The only salvation for the present world depression was higher prices and Mr. Darling saw no method for accomplishing this except by bringing back the price of silver.

By KEN CLARK

Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, D.C., June 10.—Senator William H. King, of Utah, announced last night he would call Wednesday at the senate department and ask that the United States call an international conference to study the question of silver. This is the latest development in the agitation for action to valorize silver apparently rapidly coming to a head.

The Canadian Press learns on high authority the United States government does not want an international political conference, but there is not the same opposition to a conference of experts without political sanction. However, the silver party in this country would be dissatisfied with the calling of such a gathering.

New Penalties For Butter Adulteration

Canadian Press

OTTAWA, Ont., June 10—Increased penalties for the adulteration of butter and other dairy products will be considered by the agriculture committee of the house of commons. The house last night gave second reading, without discussion, to the bill introduced by Samuel Gobeil (Con., Compton) which would amend the Dairy Industries act by putting heavier penalties on those convicted of offences under the act, and referred it to the agriculture committee.

FLOODS THREATEN IN NEW ENGLAND

Heavy Rains Send Rivers and Streams Near Flood Levels

Associated Press

BOSTON, Mass., June 10.—Waters of New England's rivers and streams rose steadily toward the flood stage today as unusually heavy rains continued out of the northeast.

Many western Massachusetts, Vermont and Maine farmers faced loss of crops as the heavy rains reached their fourth day. In several sections farmers were moving their livestock to higher ground.

There was no serious property damage reported, but officials were fearful that another 24 hours of heavy and uninterrupted rainfall might bring serious floods with resultant heavy losses.

The Hoosac river was four feet above normal and rising rapidly. Near Stamford, Vt., the Hoosac had already overflowed its banks and washed into the roadway.

In Maine, the Saco and Roscoggin rivers rose steadily and in many places overflowed their banks. At Fryeburg, a foot of water bogged down many cultivated fields.

In the Winooski valley of Vermont indications were that the lowlands would be inundated with serious damage to the crops.

If a Norwegian sells $100 worth of goods to Russia and doesn't get his money, his own government will pay him $75, and as he certainly tacks on $25 profit he can't lose, and keeps his business going.

The U. S. government is too pure for that.

"PARIS is having a colonial exposition, and once more the Eiffel Tower is taxed to its capacity with visitors."

The French, conservative at first, would only go to the first landing, 190 feet toward the clouds. A few went to the 384-foot height, few dared brave the third platform, 905 feet high. Now nearly all go to the top, and look over the beautiful city.

Something of the fish and something of the bird makes us want to go to the bottom of the sea, and to high places. And we go.

Once "captive balloons" fastened to the earth with a rope were popular. Sarah Bernhardt went up in one, and was well advertised.

Former Governor Smith's Empire State building in New York, considerably higher than the Eiffel Tower, actually takes in a thousand dollars a day from visitors to the top.

In a little while school children will take their "geography lesson" going around the world six miles up and think nothing of it.

BANK mergers in Chicago show that some big-sized financial gentlemen mean to take care of weak sisters and avoid trouble whenever it is possible. General Dawes, Mr. Traylor of the First National Bank of Chicago, George M. Reynolds of the Continental Illinois National Bank, are entitled to thanks.

But some way should be found to impress on so-called financiers that lending money on a shoestring, especially when it isn't a good shoestring, has its penalties.

Empire Imports Of Butter Answer To Soviet 5-Year Plan

Canadian Press Cable

LONDON, June 10—"The empire's reply to the Russian five-year plan" is the description Sir William Wayland, Conservative member of the house of commons and chairman of the Empire Dairy council, applies to the increase in imports of empire butter to Great Britain this year.

During the next few weeks no fewer than 46 vessels from New Zealand and Australia will bring more than a million boxes of butter to British ports. Canadian butter is once more entering the British market, too, after being absent for five or six years.

Investigation Of Red Snow Is Made

Canadian Press

VICTORIA, B.C., June 10.—Close investigation of the red snow of the forbidden plateau of Vancouver Island, which has been the subject of considerable discussion among scientists, was made by W. J. Oliver, motion picture photographer of Calgary, Clinton S. Woods, the first white man to blaze a trial into the plateau and Harold Husband of Victoria, who have just returned from an eventful trip into the impressive Strathcona park area.

The theory often advanced that the color is only given to it when viewed from a distance by red alpine flowers butting their way through the white blanket, was exploded.

In wide veins where the snow is six feet deep, it is decidedly red in color and no flowers poke their way through to color it, the party reports. They stood in the red snow, picked it up and examined it. Their examination threw no light on the mystery.

A handful of snow taken from a section decidedly red appeared perfectly white when picked up, the untouched snow from which it was taken, several feet deep, was red.

Beautification Of Ottawa Is Urged

Canadian Press

OTTAWA, Ont., June 10.—Continued efforts to beautify Ottawa as the capital of Canada were urged Tuesday by the Earl of Bessborough, Governor General, speaking at a Canadian Club luncheon. The outward appearance of a capital city could have a far greater value than mere aesthetic effect, His Excellency said. In the years to come it would be a mirror of the history and traditions of the country.

"Speaking to you citizens of Ottawa," he said, "I urge you to remember your very grave responsibility to posterity. So far the opportunities for improving the city have been taken advantage of. Make sure there is no falling off in the years to come."

The Governor General said he knew of no more beautiful setting in the Empire than that of the parliament buildings in Canada.

A GREAT STOCK DISTRICT

The Central Alberta Shorthorn Club held a field day on Thursday at Lacombe, when cattlemen from widely scattered sections of the west gathered there and visited eight of the outstanding herds of the district.

The herds inspected totalled about one thousand breeding females and a large number of young bulls. Some of these animals will be seen at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto next November. One experienced observer stated that nowhere else in Canada could so many high-class females and impressive sires of the breed be seen in the course of a day's journey.

The Lacombe district has long been famous for its Shorthorn herds. It has supplied breeding stock to all parts of western Canada, and not a few winners of national and international prizes stand to the credit of its stockmen.

Perhaps that is one reason why the Lacombe district knows less about the "ups and downs" of the farming business than some other parts of the west. Its breeders are evidently staying in the business and worthily sustaining the local tradition.

A GOOD TIME TO CONFER

The Imperial economic conference will not resume in Ottawa in August, as planned.

The reasons for the postponement are said to be that Australia and New Zealand are experiencing difficult times, and are to hold general elections; that South Africa is unwilling to send delegates; that the Indian round table conference is pending, and that the British Government is divided on the question of establishing a quota on wheat.

Most of these would seem to be reasons why the conference is desirable, and should not be long delayed. The troubles in Australia and New Zealand and South Africa are basically economic. Canada, incidentally, is having difficulties arising from the same source. Indian unrest is largely due to the grinding poverty of its people and the lack of profitable export markets.

When so many of the Empire's units are finding present conditions unsatisfactory, would appear to be a good time to get together and talk over the possibilities of a change in the direction of developing trade with each other. In what other direction has any of them so good a chance for prosperity?

OLD AGE PENSIONS

Either Premier Bracken got his figures mixed or Premier Bennett changed his mind. The Dominion is to pay only 75 per cent of the cost of old age pensions, not 95 per cent as Mr. Bracken understood.

It is explained this is only a temporary arrangement, and that a completely revised pension scheme is to be brought in, whether at this session of parliament or next is not stated. Under the new plan, it is to be supposed, the Dominion will provide all the money required. Anything less than that would be only a per centage fulfilment of the promises made during the election campaign a year ago.

It is unfortunate the provinces were not told what the intentions of the Dominion Government were while the provincial budgets were being made up. Several of the legislatures assumed that the federal authority would make good the campaign undertaking immediately, and voted only the amounts thought necessary to cover the period until the Dominion would take over the burden.

These provinces will now have to make up the shortage in the funds by the use of governor's warrants, a practice that is undesirable and in degree dangerous. Nor will the feelings of the provincial governments be mollified by Mr. Bennett's caustic observation that he was not responsible for what the legislatures might do in the matter.

Incidentally, since the Dominion is putting up only three-quarters of the pension money, the municipalities of Alberta will have to pay the usual proportion of the one-quarter the province has to supply.

THE NEW RELIEF PLAN

The taxpayers will approve, as they should, the decision of the city council to provide single unemployed men with the price of two meals per day and a bed, in return for a day's work per week.

That is by no means putting relief measures on a de luxe basis, but it is a step in the right direction and a vast improvement on a steady diet of porridge and a bed under the stars. The porridge kitchen, of course, is to be kept going as well, and a good many who object to that kind of nourishment three times per day will find it both tasty and wholesome as supplementing two more substantial meals.

The new plan represents the minimum that humanity demands, and any further changes should be in the direction of more, not less assistance.

The other side of the picture is that, in return for the outlay, the city will get about six hundred days' work per week. The men, it is to be supposed, will be employed on work that is not already in progress and that would not otherwise be done.

That amount of labor, properly directed, should in the course of a couple of months result in a large number of betterments which would not be made in the ordinary course of things. Edmonton's streets and lanes should be put and kept in better condition this summer than they have been for many years. And perhaps something can be done toward carrying out the park improvement program which the burgesses refused to sanction as a capital expenditure involving the creation of new debt.

It is to be expected that the Provincial and Dominion Governments will make their usual contribution to the cost of this new but obviously needed measure of relief. They could not in decency refuse to do so, after admitting their joint responsibility last winter by contributing when the urgency of relief was no greater than it is now.

Caesar's Idea

By EDGAR A. GUEST

Old Caesar said that thinking men are dangerous to peace.
They like to toil with thoughts at night when all the noises cease.
They peddle strange ideas round about the neighborhood,
And they stir up endless trouble, which a dumbbell never would.

"Let me have men about me who are fat," old Caesar said.
"The comfortable fellows who can sleep when they're in bed;
I don't like lean and hungry men, who keep themselves in touch
With everything that's going on, because they think too much."

I think I know what Caesar meant. The thinker speaks his mind,
And he would break with customs old if better he could find,
But comfortable followers are those who, right or wrong,
Smile smugly on their leader and say, "Yes, sir," all day long.

Bad Tempered

By J. J. MUNDY

As a nervous, high-strung temperament, you have frequent outbursts of temper.

You make little effort to control this tendency.

You expect others to make allowances for your disposition and condition and think they should not take vigorous exception as they often do to your words and actions.

Although you make stinging accusations during your emotional outbursts you feel that those accused should realize that you do not mean all you say.

After one of those spells you harbor no ill-feeling and you really wish for forgiveness but you can't make up your mind to ask for it.

If those whom you have scored should come to you in a conciliatory way you would gladly make apology and accept them again on friendly terms.

But why should you expect those who have suffered from your unjust and severe criticism to forget so easily?

Why should they feel like making excuses for your rude conduct?

They have a right to feel that as an adult you should conquer yourself.

Naturally your immediate friends are tired of your abusiveness.

You want respect, but as long as you give these exhibitions of uncontrolled temper you lessen the regard of all who encounter them.

On This Date

JUNE 10

Birth of James, Prince of Wales, Chevalier de St. George, commonly called "the old Pretender", June 10, 1688. Most people would consider that the child who could choose a King for his father was born under a lucky star, though even that is, or was, somewhat doubtful, considering the sea of trouble which has surrounded so many thrones. The old Pretender no doubt considered himself doubly unlucky in that respect, for he was born to prospects which never matured, and there is nothing like disappointed ambition to make a man sorry for himself. His father was, of course, James II, a gentleman whose name in his own kingdom became equivalent to mud, and there is not much doubt that the old Pretender, even at his birth, shared the obloquy. Shortly after his son's birth James was forced into a hurried move to the continent, and one wet winter's night the babe was conveyed to Gravesend, and carried to France, leaving his "rights" behind him before he really knew he had any. It would have been as well had it remained at that, but as age advanced those "rights" became an obsession. Fortunately he proved too weak of purpose to do any real harm. In Scotland, where he was received as the true English king, even his supporters lost their enthusiasm when they saw him. "I must not conceal" writes one of them, "that when we saw the man whom they called our King, we found ourselves not at all animated by his presence, and if he was disappointed with us, we were tenfold more so with him." So the Chevalier very soon found himself back on foreign soil again. There are many rather mixed descriptions of him. Of vigorous qualities he seems to have been minus. Had it not been so history might have many additional battles to record. Eventually he became of little consequence to the cause, and the mantle fell upon his son Charles Edward, the Young Pretender.

I suppose nothing adds more to the flames of hostility than the fear of its impotence.

Keeping Mentally Fit

By JOSEPH JASTROW, A.B., A.M., Ph.D., LL.D.

AN AMATEUR PSYCHOLOGIST'S QUERY

Myself and a friend, both amateur psychologists, feel that we have broken into a new territory. We think we have found a new vision of something that has been unnoticed before. We make the new shift to include under "acquired characteristics" not skill of hand or tongue or hearing, but of temperament, including pathological characteristics. Many people born normal acquire many of these mental maladjustments; yet we have identified cases of neuroses inherited by children from parents whose neuroses were acquired through unfortunate experiences. J. N.

In answering this puzzling question, I want to carry the reader along with me. It is true, as J. N. states in the rest of his letter, that the doctrine of inheriting acquired characteristics has been abandoned. Cramping the feet of Chinese women had no effect on their offspring, nor would it have done so had the men been treated similarly. Let me put a case: A woman who has normal hearing up to middle life, then becomes increasingly deaf. She has two children, one a son who reaches old age and retains his hearing, and another, a daughter, who like her mother, has normal hearing until middle life and then becomes hard of hearing. The father has normal hearing. The fact that mother and daughter, from middle life on, show the same defect does not make a case of inheriting acquired characteristics. We infer that daughter and mother have a common inheritance which inclines them to become deaf with years.

It is just as true, that (in some sense) these neuroses (mental maladjustments) were acquired, and (in some sense) through "unfortunate experiences." But if you say that the experiences brought on the neuroses; you go much too far. We all agree that temperament is inherited, and that neuroses develop favorably in some kinds of temperament, far less so in others, just as deafness in old age occurs on the basis of a certain inherited tendency. But because you find similar neuroses in children and in parents, you can only conclude that parent and child both had temperaments easily yielding to neuroses. The parents may have been normal to middle life and the children show neuroses early. In all this there is no evidence of the inheritance of acquired characteristics; nor is there anything novel in the argument.

If father and mother both lose a right leg as the result of an accident and all the children born before the accident had two good legs, and those after had defective right legs, you would have a convincing case; but it is an absurd supposition. Equally if J. N. or anybody else could say when the parents "acquired" the neurosis, and show in a considerable number of cases that their children born before that time went through life without neuroses, and those born later showed nervous disorders, there would be something to consider. But things do not happen that way.

Amateur psychologists should be encouraged, and anybody, amateur or professional, who thinks straight may come upon an important discovery. But in this most puzzling problem the facts are tangled, and conclusions difficult. A neurosis is not inevitable, even with a bad heredity; it needs to be offset by especially wise ways of living. When the fathers eat sour grapes, the sons do not have their teeth set on edge.

EXPORT AND IMPORT

Canada produces many commodities in excess of the quantity she requires to satisfy her own needs. Hence, she must have access to outside markets. The ease or difficulty experienced in getting into those markets depends to a very large extent upon the amount of the customs duty she imposes upon the goods she buys from countries to which she desires to sell her surpluses.—Victoria Times.

A WILSON MONUMENT

One of the graceful, if belated, events growing out of the World war will be the journey of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson to Poland to witness the unveiling of the monument to her distinguished husband on July 4.

This statue of the great war President is by Gutzon Borglum; it is of heroic size and represents Mr. Wilson standing guard almost on the edge of the famous Polish "corridor," which was made part of Poland by the Versailles treaty. Paderewski, the great pianist, is the donor of the noble memorial, which cost $100,000.—Boston Post.

GOLD-RICH BUT TRADE-POOR

Scripture says: "He that liveth by the sword shall perish by the sword." American desire to put the world in commercial thrall has had the result of killing her export trade. With the necessity of making payment in gold, her overseas customers are unable to make purchases in America. There's a type of investor who becomes land-poor, though holding more land than he can use. United States shows the spectacle of a nation that has become trade-poor in making itself gold-rich.—Regina Star.

EMPIRE INDUSTRIES

Covering in its customary comprehensive and concise manner the engineering resources of the Empire, the Times (London) trade and engineering supplement is receiving wide circulation in Canada.

Plentiful illustrations and authoritative articles from every corner of the globe reveal not only wide sources of supply in engineering products but manifold opportunity to put those products to work in a profitable manner, all within the boundaries of the Empire.

The supplement now available in Edmonton, shows every sign of having received that meticulous attention to detail and accuracy which has been for centuries the hallmark of the Times.

MILLIONAIRES EXCUSED

"Enquirer," from Glencoe, Ontario, writes The Globe asking how many millionaires are in the Bennett Cabinet. He wants to know why the income tax has been reduced on great wealth, while it is to operate vigorously, emphatically and efficiently on "middlemen." Perhaps Premier Bennett—himself a multi-millionaire—can explain this remarkable reduction in income taxation on men of millions, while taxes generally on the ordinary, everyday, salaried citizen are increased. The Globe is unable to do so— or to explain to its correspondent the "principle" which dominated the Bennett Government in its decision to relieve taxation on great wealth and to increase it upon those who have less of this world's goods.—Toronto Globe.

HOW ABOUT CONSUMPTION?

The national policy of Canada has been essentially a policy to increase Canadian production. The records show that production has been steadily increased.

After the war, the Canadian people were told by the highest authorities in politics and in business that along the path of increased production lay the sure return to national prosperity. The people responded heartily. They are ready to respond with even greater production. But what about the factor of consumption?

Surely the annual budget statement should tell the country how much of Canada's production is consumed by the people of Canada. Unemployed Canadian workers would be glad to produce more. At the same time, the great majority of Canadian people need more. Annual consumption is far behind the nation's capacity to produce.—Ottawa Citizen.

Health and Diet Advice

By Dr. FRANK McCOY

TICS OR HABIT SPASMS

Perhaps you have seen someone whose eyes suddenly blink, or eyebrow lifts, of face twitches entirely against his will. Such a person is suffering from a tic or habit spasm, which means making nervous movements without desiring to. These spasms or tics may become habitual and the victim can then no more stop the tic than he can stop being humiliated and embarrassed by it.

In some cases the habit spasm may take the form of clearing the throat or coughing, which a person may do to the annoyance of others without being aware of it himself.

In general, a habit spasm denotes some disorder of the nervous reflexes, but in nervous persons it may simply be a habit. Children of a thin nervous type are most likely to develop tics. The child is unable to control the movements and it is wrong for the parent to harp on the subject. While the majority of grown-up patients with tics are of an unsettled, irritable type and inclined to nervousness, there are some patients with habit spasms who have apparently strong mental habits and steady nerves.

Some of our most brilliant men have had these tics. Almost everyone has had a twitch at some time, usually when over-tired or enervated. Haven't you ever had an eyelid suddenly jump, or a muscle in the face twitch? The first spasm follows a strain and is a reflex movement, being an attempt to relieve some unnatural tension.

A temporary tic may occur during a nervous breakdown, mental illness, fatigue, extreme worry or shock, and tics of this type usually go away as soon as the strain is removed and the health is back to normal. Such a tic is likely to become chronic if it is combined with intestinal toxemia, worms, pyorrhea, infected tonsils, abscessed teeth, or if it develops during anemia or neurasthenia. If the tic has been present for some time good results will usually be had with an orange or tomato juice fast to help the body get rid of any accumulated toxins which may be irritating the nervous reflexes. During this diet treatment enemas should be used and every effort made to encourage the elemination of toxins through all of the eliminative organs. Patients should also have an examination to find out whether there is a pus pocket or focal infection in the body which is throwing poisons into the system.

The fast should be followed with an effort to improve the general health through plenty of sleep, outdoor exercise and fresh air, good mental attitude and through a daily cleansing. All of these measures will help the patient gain health and strength and also tend to stabilie the nerves as well. Patient should also use facial exercises twice a day, such as those given in my article on Facial Countours, which I will be glad to send in return for a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope. If you also wish the cleansing diet add an extra two-cent stamp and it will be sent to you. Practice the facial exercises morning and evening and do them in front fo a mirror. In this way you will be able to gain control over the embarrassing tic; it is always worth an effort.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Dietetic Crisis

Question: Mrs. H. asks: "What would cause cramps from the knees down, on the second day of an orange fast which was taken to overcome indigestion?"

Answer: These cramps were probably due to a "dietetic crisis". Such symptoms are fully described in an article of that title which I shall be glad to send upon your request accompanied by a large self-addressed stamped envelope. Perhaps you may have some inflammation in your stomach, in which case a milk diet would be beneficial. After a few days on the milk diet you could then again try the orange juice fast and I believe you will experience no difficulty.

Orange-Milk for Breakfast

Question: J. G. writes: "I enjoy an orange milkshake for breakfast; it tastes especially good with graham crackers. Is the combination okay?"

Answer: Orange-milk, made with the addition of only pure orange juice to sweet milk, is a good food for breakfast or to be taken in place of any other meal of the day, but graham crackers or other starchy foods should not be used at the same time.

Reducing Upper Arms

Question: Mrs. B. B. asks: "Will you kindly tell me how to reduce the upper arms?"

Answer: Any kind of arm exercises will reduce the fat on your arms. The best ones to take are those requiring a reasonable amount of muscular tension and, at the same time, these exercises should be used rapidly and with vigor. Probably the best plan would be to purchase one of the "chest weight exercisers" which you can secure from any sporting goods store. It is attached to the wall, and exercises by ropes running over pulleys.

GOODS FOR GOODS

It is a fallacy to think that China has been seriously injured by the decline in silver prices. China purchases her requirements of foreign commodities with her exports. It makes little fundamental difference to the purchasing power of China how much silver she holds or its value, but the amount of silk or tea available for export, ready to be exchanged for foreign goods, is tremendously important. It makes little difference whether we think of this exchange taking place in terms of gold or silver. It is the ratio between the value of the imported and exported commodities in the outside market that governs China's purchasing power.—Montreal Star.

Opinions

ALBERTA PREFERRED

Editor, Bulletin.

According to Mr. Klyparchuk's letter, published in your paper on May 29, there are no hard times in Russia. The bread is so plentiful they feed it to the horses and scatter it everywhere. Those that bake it must be fond of their jobs. According to the same authority, three millions more workers are needed, and I suppose they would be received with a military band, as was Mr. Klyparchuk.

Soon we might hear that the Bolsheviki living here are asking to be deported to the land of plenty. That would ease our unemployment situation.

I am of the opinion that Mr. Klyparchuk will still prefer to live in this country and feed hay and oats to his horses.

Third Reading Given Copyright Bill

BILL IS NOW HANDED OVER TO THE SENATE

Hon. C. H. Cahan Hopes For Thorough Revision of Law

Canadian Press

OTTAWA, Ont., June 10—Parliament Tuesday gave third reading to a bill amending the Copyright act, approving the final three clauses in a short time. Nine clauses were passed in committee last night. The bill went on to the senate.

Piloting the bill through the house, Hon. C. H. Cahan, secretary of state, said he hoped a thorough revision of the copyright law might be undertaken but indicated it would require "a great deal of time."

The bill is drafted in order to bring the present copyright law into conformity with the Rome convention of 1928, and Canada is required to deposit this country's adherence to that convention by July 1. In general its purpose was to extend the provisions of the copyright so as to embrace radio broadcasting and cinematograph reproductions, those developments not being in existence when the original Berne convention was drafted.

As the bill operates, individuals who have not registered their works will not possess the right of suit in court in respect of such unregistered works. In the case of assignment having been made, only such assignments as have been registered will vest in the assignee whatever court rights are established. Unregistered assignments will have no status before the court.

Organizations to whom copyrighted works have been assigned and who charge fees for the performance of such works will be subjected to governmental regulation if, after an enquiry by a commissioner under the Enquiries act, it is shown that excessive fees are being charged or that the organizations are operating detrimentally to the public interest.

Medical Exams Are Written On Tuesday

Candidates for Dominion Medical council certificates, entitling them to practice anywhere in Canada, wrote examinations in this city on Tuesday.

The council is holding such exams in this city, Winnipeg and Vancouver as the only three points in the west.

In all 30 are seeking diplomas here, most being graduates of the University of Alberta, but with some drawn from the University of Saskatchewan.

In the past, Alberta students have been particularly successful with 100 per cent. candidates passing last year.

Clinical work in connection with the exams, is being taken at the University hospital.

RAILWAY COAL COSTS HIGHER IN DOMINION

Sir Henry Thornton Says C.N.R. Pays More for Fuel Than U.S. Lines

Canadian Press

OTTAWA, Ont., June 10.—Lured by possibilities of fireworks over the salaries paid executives of the Canadian National Railway, a large attendance was present when the special railway parliamentary committee convened this morning. Dr. Peter McGibbon, Conservative member for Muskoka, interjected the salaries question at a meeting yesterday, and was told he might receive answers today.

The members, however, were informed by Hon. J. D. Chaplin, the chairman, that no answers would be made today. "I have received," he said, "a number of questions. The questions will be tabulated and given to the railway management for answer and we then will decide which of them should be answered."

Turning more to financial matters relating to the Canadian National, Sir Henry Thornton said 95 per cent of all materials, exclusive of coal used by the road, was produced in Canada. The railway paid three or four times more for Canadian coal than United States lines did for its native fuel. The average price for United States roads was $2.34 a ton while the average price for all coal purchased by the Canadian National was $4.31 a ton. Out of a total of about 4,728 000 tons of coal used throughout the system, 1,600,000 tons were imported from United States.

The difference in coal costs, as compared with United States lines, meant $5,400 000 a year in added expenses to the Canadian National, said Sir Henry.

The coal policy of the railway, proceeded Sir Henry, was to use Maritime coal as far west as Brockville, Ont. From that point to the head of the lakes, United States coal was used, and sometimes as far west as Winnipeg. Western Canadian coal was used between the head of the lakes and Edmonton or Jasper, Alberta. A combined fuel oil and coal was used over the mountains to the Pacific.

"Some say," said Sir Henry, "that we should use nothing but Canadian coal, but that would add several millions of dollars to our operating expenses."

In buying Canadian coal, the C.N.R. purchased from mines on its own lines, said Sir Henry. This was in answer to Gen. J. S. Stewart, Conservative member for Lethbridge, who said southern Alberta producers could ship coal to Calgary cheaper than miners in the northern part of the province.

PATRONIZED OWN LINES

Both the C.P.R. and the C.N.R., said Sir Henry, patronized mines on their own lines. If the National road purchased coal from Lethbridge it would be necessary to pay its rival road freight charges for hauling it.

The railway, comparing 1930 with 1929, suffered a loss in operating revenues of $46 223,000, Sir Henry reported. Freight traffic decreased 18 per cent; passenger traffic 16.9 per cent; and all commodity groups showed substantial decreases in tonnage carried. At the same time, however, grain carried from the west showed an increase of 99,896 tons or 2.4 per cent. The explanation, said Sir Henry Thornton, lay in the very small crop of 1929.

In addition there was a large carryover into 1930 of the latter crop.

Turning to the question of grain freight rates, Sir Hery said if they were regarded only from the point of view of the railways, they were too low. Canadian rates were approximately 25 per cent lower than United States rates. If consideration were given only to the railways, the rates were too low but, at the same time, consideration had to be given to the well-being of the west as a whole and of the individual farmers. Grain should not be carried at a loss, and likewise the farmers should not be taxed too heavily.

Move Ratification Nations League Act

Canadian Press

OTTAWA, Ont., June 10—Ratification of the League of Nations general act of 1928 for the Pacific settlement of international disputes, was moved in the senate last night by Hon. G. D. Robertson, minister of labor. The House of Commons already has approved of Canada's accession, subject to certain reservations which apply not only to this country but to the other nations of the British Empire.

Senator Robertson said it was a long step toward establishing permanent peace throughout the world. Senator Dandurand heartily approved of the resolution and gave a history of the step accomplished by the League of Nations towards permanent peace. Sir Geo. Foster explained the position of the British government in 1924 on the protocol. The obligations then, he said, were too great for Great Britain to subscribe to it, with the United States not being a party. The resolution was adopted.

Face Charge Making Counterfeit Coins

Canadian Press

WILLOWBUNCH, Sask., June 10.—Alleged to have confessed to the crime Joseph E. Benoit will face preliminary hearing here on June 16 on a charge of making counterfeit coins. The charge was laid by Royal Canadian Mounted Police who altered an earlier charge of being in possession of counterfeit coins, when the alleged confession was received.

Benoit has been taken to Regina where he will await hearing. Counterfeit 25 and 50-cent Canadian coins and one dollar United States coins have recently been circulating in the Willowbunch and Shaunavon districts. Suspicion attached to the Benoits and they were detained by police.

Further investigations at Shaunavon are likely to follow.

Six Workers Dead In Mine Disaster

Associated Press Cable

NEURODE, Germany, June 10—Six miners were known to be dead and one was missing today as a result of the infiltration of carbon-dioxide gas into the fourth level of a coal mine at Kohlendorf, near here.

Rescue squads took four men, slightly injured from the mine and recovered the bodies of six others. They were still searching for the missing workman but he was believed to be dead.

Gerald E. Anderson, charged with non-support, was granted an adjournment until June 23.

Amusement

AT THE CAPITOL

Two wealthy business men and a lovely star of the stage form a unique love triangle in "My Past," the Warner Brothers master production of modern love which opens a three days engagement at the Capitol theatre today. Miss Daniels portrays an alluring footlight celebrity in this ultra modern screen story. Included in the all star cast are Ben Lyon and Lewis Stone. "My Past" was adapted from the soul-revealing biography of Dora Macy, to which the author dared not sign her name.

There are some excellent shorts on this program. An exceptionally fine comedy, Fox News of the World, and Jumping Beans," making an ideal two hours entertainment.

AT THE RIALTO

Neil Hamilton, who plays the leading male role in "Ladies Must Play," the Columbia production at the Rialto theatre, accuses the fictitious hero whom he impersonates of having stolen his stuff.

Hamilton bases his complaint upon the fact that in the final sequence of "Ladies Must Play," Gregg, the hero, marries the heroine, Norma Blake, when he has only eleven dollars in his pocket. Neil Hamilton made his first plunge into the sea of matrimony when he was no better equipped financially for the adventure than was Tony Gregg.

On the same bill, "Runaway Bride."

AT THE DREAMLAND

Now at the Dreamland theatre, "Resurrection" is drawing capacity audiences.

This stirring flesh-and-blood drama of the great Tolstoy's immortal story is gripping new thousands every day, for the talking picture version which Edwin Carewe has so capably directed for Universal Pictures adds uncanny realism to the vivid action.

The Tolstoy epic of prince and peasant which has been published in almost every language is a throbbing, emotional narrative splendidly portrayed by John Boles and Lupe Veles in the principal roles.

AT THE PRINCESS

Co-starred with the popular Victor McLaglen, famous for his roistering portrayals in two of the decade's great moving pictures, Marlene Dietrich comes to the Princess theatre today for two days, in "Dishonored," an intriguing story of a woman spy in wartime.

The magnificent Dietrich, who captivated the millions of two continents in two motion picture appearances, in "Morocco" and "The Blue Angel," has arrived at the peak of film fame in "Dishonored." She has been starred by Paramount in response to the overwhelming acclaim accorded her performance in "Morocco;" she portrays a character of never-ending changefulness; she has acquired the support of one of screendom's outstanding male stars, Victory McLaglen, and a supporting cast of almost unequalled strength.

Red Cross Delegates Interview Brownlee

A deputation consisting of Mrs. Waagen, Calgary, honorary acting director of the Alberta Red Cross, and G. W. Waistell, Edmonton Amputations association, waited on Hon. J. E. Brownlee, premier of Alberta, Monday afternoon and presented a memorandum agreed to at Calgary, where a recent unemployment conference was held under the direction of Mrs. Waagen and a number of representatives of various soldier organizations.

Present from Edmonton were Mr. Waistell, Fred Deer, president of the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Legion, and Col. T. C. Sims, V.D., representing the Red Chevron club. More than a dozen persons attended the conference altogether, including three ladies representing the Red Cross.

Although the gathering represented returned men, they considered the whole unemployment problem from a broad humanitarian scope and the recommendations made in the memorandum presented to the prime minister considered all sections and classes of the community.

Road Work Going Well Minister Of Highways States

Work on all provincial government road projects is progressing satisfactorily and until the rains of the last few days delayed operations, rapid construction had been the order of the day, according to Hon. O. L. McPherson, minister of public works.

Asked regarding the success with which the scheme for employing 60 per cent local resident labor was meeting, the Minister said it was working out to the satisfaction of all. The percentage is being carefully followed except in those municipal districts where there are an insufficient number of farmers equipped with motor trucks to handle the work.

All gravel for the various projects is being hauled by truck.

But "Old Dobbin" is not being neglected. On the grading of the highway running east from the city limits to Vegreville, there are no fewer than 350 horses working. This grade is well past Bremner now and is being pushed forward rapidly.

All pieces of work are expected to be completed well within the scheduled time.

BANDITS DEFEAT TROOPS

FOOCHOW, China, June 9.—Provincial forces fighting bandits throughout the greater portion of Fukien province were severely defeated today near Kienning by a swarm of outlaws from Kiangsi province. The marauders forced the soldiers to retreat eastward.

Mrs. Margaret R. McDonald, the dashing driver, who allegedly caused a bad crash when she drove a car around a block on a dare, was granted an adjournment until June 11 by Magistrate Emily Murphy on a charge of reckless driving. This lady driver is from Winnipeg, but is at present living at 4 Argonaut apartments.

Assurance Company Chief Is Optimistic

Factories in Eastern Canada are looking forward to increased business, and already several large firms in the east have been increasing the working staff to cope with the increase in the demand for manufactured products, according to F. Kumpf, president and manager of the Dominion Life Assurance Company, Waterloo, Ont., who was in Edmonton Tuesday to confer with J. H. Van Slyke, Edmonton manager of the firm.

Mr. Kumpf is making a tour of the west during which he is inspecting the company's branches, and he is accompanied by A. M. MacTavish, actuary of the company, Waterloo, and Albert Ross, Alberta manager, with headquarters at Calgary.

"There is a general feeling in Canada that we have at least touched the bottom of the depression. How long we will stay there I cannot say, but future prospects are very bright," stated Mr. Kumpf. He declared that there was a considerable improvement in conditions in Ontario. "But the east depends on the purchasing power of the west in order to ride the hard times," he stated.

The officials, who are registered at the Macdonald hotel, will leave shortly for the Pacific Coast.

MISSIONARIES WITHDRAW

SHANGHAI, June 9.—Ten United States Methodist Episcopal missionaries stationed at Yenping, Fukien province, withdrew from there to Foochow today because of the menace of Communists and bandits.

JAP PRINCE DIES

TOKYO, June 9.—Prince Hirokuni Ito, 62, member of the House of Peers and auditor of the Bank of Japan, died Tuesday morning.

HONOR DICKENS' MEMORY

LONDON, June 9.—In behalf of enthusiasts of Charles Dickens in Toronto and Boston, wreaths were laid on the novelist's grave in Westminster Abbey today to commemorate the 61st anniversary of his death. The wreaths were composed of scarlet geraniums, Dickens' favorite flower.

EMENY—SHEPPARD

Under an archway twined with summer flowers, Rev. Philip Duncan read the marriage service uniting Vivian Margaret, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Speppard and Earl Victor Emeny, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emeny of Rocky Mountain House at the residence of the bride's parents on Tuesday evening at eight o'clock. The bride was lovely in a gown of ivory chiffon and lace with long lace sleeves and graceful folds of lace, with insets of chiffon, reaching her toes. She wore a band of orange blossoms which had been her mother's twined with tulle, in her hair, and she carried a bouquet of sweet peas and valley lilies.

Mrs. Sheppard chose a gown of black lace with which she wore a corsage of purple iris.

Miss Molly Bowen played the bridal chorus from Lohengrin as the bride entered the room on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage.

Following the ceremony, a buffet supper was served to the wedding party. A three tier wedding cake, wreathed in white tulle, centered the table, on which burned tall white tepers in silver holders. Quantities of snap dragons and lilacs were used throughout the rooms.

Mr. and Mrs. Emeny left later in the evening for Calgary and other points in the south of the province, and will make their home in Edmonton.

Discussion Of Disarmament Set For Thursday

All who are interested are invited to attend, and discussion and questions will be encouraged.

The Rev. G. H. Millett will lead the discussion.

Smart Ceremony Takes Place In Robertson Church

The marriage of Helen Margaret, eldest daughter of Mrs. E. S. Henderson and the late Mr. R. G. Henderson of Victoria House, Tobermore, Northern Ireland, and Mr. Harold Lindsay Jordan, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Jordan of Edmonton, took place in Robertson United Church on Tuesday evening at eight-thirty o'clock, the Rev. Dr. Thomas Mitchell officiating. The church was decorated with quantities of palms and ferns in tall standards, and the guest pews were marked by tiny bunches of spring flowers with tulle bows. The lovely bride, given in marriage by Mr. Reginald Smith of Calgary, a cousin of the bridegroom, was gowned in ivory satin falling into a slight train at the back and on the shoulders of which were large butterfly bows from which extended two panels which fell to the floor forming a long court train. The sleeves were long and tight-fitting. Her veil was of French silk net edged with Chantilly lace, attached to a cap of Chantilly lace by a band of orange blossoms. Coming over each arm was a motif in butterfly design of Carrick-ma-cross lace, sent from Ireland for the occasion by the mother of the bride. Ivory satin shoes were worn, and her only ornament was a rope of pearls. She carried calla lilies and fern, from which hung narrow streamers of white satin ribbon knotted with lily of the valley. Mrs. W. J. Carleton, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor, wearing a gown of aqua marine blue moire with white mohair hat banded in blue velvet. Her slippers were of white moire and she carried pink carnations and mauve sweet peas. The bridesmaid was Miss Chrissie Russell, who wore primrose taffeta printed in Dresden design, and matching mohair picture hat and tinted shoes. Her bouquet was of yellow carnations and mauve sweet peas. Little Marjorie Sedgewick was a dainty flower girl in an old-fashioned frock of pale green chiffon, befrilled from waist to ankle. She wore a poke hat of matching mohair and carried a colonial bouquet of Johanna Hill roses and mauve sweet peas. Mr. Thomas Dalkin attended the bridegroom and the ushers were Mr. David McNaught and Mr. Jack Hawkesworth. Mrs. N. A. MacPhee was soloist, and Mr. Herbert Wild was at the organ playing Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus. The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a walnut tea-table, and the bride's gift to the bridegroom was a radio.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the La Venendrye Club, where Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Jordan assisted the bride and bridegroom in receiving the guests. The tea table was centred with the bride's cake, and from the chandelier pink and white streamers were attached to each corner of the table. Pink candles and tiny bod vases filled with pink carnations were also used. Mrs. J. B. Carmichael and Mrs. David McNaught presided at the tea and coffee urns, and those assisting were: Mrs. J. Hawkesworth, Mrs. H. Sedgewick, Miss Frances Boylan, Miss Kathleen McKinnon, Miss Rita Hanzen, Miss Jean Wilson, and Miss Violet Newnham. Later in the evening dancing was enjoyed.

After spending a couple of days in the city guests at the Macdonald, Mr. and Mrs. Jordan are leaving for a two weeks' motor trip to Calgary, Banff and along the Windermere as far as Cranbrook, returning via the Crow's Nest Pass to Lethbridge, where they have taken a flat in the Galt Monor Apartments. The bride's travelling costume consisted of a three piece woollen suit in tones of black, white and yellow, with which she wore a Debway model hat of black straw and blonde kid shoes. She also wore a red fox fur and chamois gloves, and her handbag was of linen trimmed with yellow. In Calgary, Mr. and Mrs. Jordan will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Smith for a few days.

Mrs. A. H. Jordan was in blue canton crepe, trimmed with beige and wore a corsage of butterfly roses. Mrs. Reginald Smith of Calgary wore yellow chiffon, printed in mauve over which was worn a shawl of cloth of gold. Her corsage was of Johanna Hill roses.

BOY BLUE

The Bulletin's Daily Short Story From Real Life

By DORIS CAY WALLACE

"The little toy dog is covered with dust
But sturdy and stanch he stands;
The little toy soldier is red with rust
And his musket molds in his hands.
Time was when the little toy dog was new,
And the soldier was passing fair;
And that was the time when our little Boy Blue
Kissed them and put them there."

THE CAST OF CHARACTERS IN "BOY BLUE"

ALICE CORNING, who tells her husband,

MICHAEL CORNING, that she can no longer live with him because their child,

BOY BLUE, died following a beating Corning administered.

"Michael, I'm through. I can't stand it here any longer." Alice Corning looked at her husband. How handsome he is, she thought. What powerful shoulders. What strong hands. Strong hands, she shuddered. Those hands had killed Boy Blue. Yes, killed Boy Blue.

With his back to the fire Michael Corning stared at his wife, not incredulously, not heart-brokenly, but defiantly.

"I'm going, Michael, and . . well, I guess you know why. I can't live here with you any longer. Every room in this house is echoing with Boy Blue's cries—his pleading, choking cries. It is a year since his death, but I can't forget that you—you"—— Her voice broke in a sob.

"Yes, yes, that I killed him. Well, you're killing me with your damned martyred look and your reproaches day in and day out. How long do you think I could stick it? You're getting out? Well, all right; but maybe I'll beat you to it."

"My God! What do you think I am?" With this last protest Michael stamped out of the room like an angry bull.

Bully, that is what he is, Alice thought. It was only a year since Boy Blue's death. What a long lonely year it had been for her. The house seemed to be filled with ghostly echoes. As each day passed the echoes became more poignant, more unbearable. They were sounds that touched her mother heart, and set it vibrating, until at times she thought it would break. Sounds of childish laughter, of pattering, eager feet, of "Mummy, Mummy." The thought of these sounds brought a tremulous smile to Alice Corning's lips.

HOW BOY BLUE GOT HIS NAME

Dear Boy Blue. How happy she and Michael had been when he was born. When her mother first saw the tiny blue-eyed baby, wrapped in a blanket as blue as his eyes, she had exclaimed, "My, where did you find Little Boy Blue?" Since that day he had been known by that name. His name of David had been merely a necessity for christening him.

Alice remembered how she and Michael had planned their son's first Christmas and the many happy days that followed. She could still recall vividly, too, his last Christmas. She had found a lovely woolly dog in one of the shops. That very evening (it was Christmas eve) Michael had come home triumphant with a set of tin soldiers. How delighted their son had been with the toys!

With an aching heart, she remembered that Christmas morning when he came down the stairs. Eagerly. Expectantly. He saw the woolly dog first and clutched it, saying: "O, Mummy, look, a Pom Pom!" His little face glowed with added pleasure when he saw the soldiers. "Daddy, a Pom Pom and Tin Tins fer he!"

He was a happy youngster; but Alice had almost despaired of him because of his frailness. Yes, Alice thought, he was frail. But he had not been deprived of the qualities that healthier children possess. He was happy and mischievous.

God, she thought, he was mischievous. It was this last quality that had indirectly caused his death.

The day before he died, Alice remembered, was a beautiful day. It was one of Boy Blue's good days. He seemed almost healthy. His little cheeks were rosy and he played with a happy zest.

But if that day was her son's good day, it was not such to Michael. He had been moody all day. "Business worries," he snapped at her when she inquired. At about 5 o'clock he had gone to work in his garden. His only vice, he often said. He gave his garden the care and tenderness that Alice lavished on Boy Blue.

Suddenly she heard her son screaming. She had rushed to the window, fearing that he was hurt. In the midst of a trampled patch of garden, stood Michael, clutching Boy Blue with one hand and beating him with the other. She recalled the glare in Michael's eyes and the ferocity with which he beat his son.

"Michael, stop! You'll hurt him. What has he done?" she had shouted.

"Damn kid! He's always in the way. Look at my garden, the best of it trampled on!"

That night they had been awakened by strange sounds coming from the nursery. Alice had reached her son's room first. There she found Boy Blue writhing in convulsive agony. Michael followed her and when he saw his son, he ran immediately for the doctor.

"I'm afraid I can't do much for him, Mrs. Corning. Tell me, what brought this on?"

Michael had spoken up immediately. "I spanked him, Doctor. And damned good. But I never thought that—"

Alice would never forget Dr. White's face as he turned to her, half in admonition, half in sorrow.

"Mrs. Corning, I warned you that too much excitement, especially the sort brought about by chastising, would result in serious trouble. Your child has never been strong and he was subject to convulsions." He had turned to Michael and had said sternly, "Mr. Corning, if anything happens to your child, I'm afraid you are responsible. He is quiet now, but I promise nothing. His condition is critical. Call me within an hour."

After the doctor had gone, Alice sat beside the bed of her child and Michael slumped in a chair in dumb chagrin. It seemed that she had been seated beside Boy Blue for hours. She looked up and saw that Michael had fallen asleep. Then from the sick bed where the child lay, Alice had heard him call, "Mummy! Mummy! Where's Pom Pom and Tin Tin? Me wants 'em, Mummy."

Alice recalled how she had searched until she had found a much worn woolly dog and one lonely battered tin soldier. Boy Blue had been glad to get them and their presence on his bed seemed to quiet him.

It must have been nearly morning when a second convulsion caught the child. How he had writhed and suffered, calling, "Mummy, Mummy, I can't breve!"

She had awakened Michael and sent him for the doctor. When Dr. White came, Boy Blue was quiet. After a hurried examination, with Alice clutching Michael's arm in frantic terror, Dr. White had spoken, "Poor tot! He's gone. I'm sorry, Mrs. Corning, your son is dead."

After that, Alice remembered nothing more; she had fainted. For days after her child's death she had gone about in dumb misery. During the year that had passed since Boy Blue's death, she spoke to Michael only when it was necessary. Now, she had reached the end of endurance. The house was filled with tender memories, but these were overwhelmed by the bitter memories.

It was Michael's fault, of course. He was sorry, but how could he know the agony of a mother's heart?

As she arose from her chair Mrs. Corning glanced through the window. There lay the garden, Michael's beloved garden, in ruins. Since his son's death he had never touched it. Alice imagined she could still see the trampled spot that Boy Blue's little feet had caused. How useless life is, she thought. Boy Blue is gone; the garden is withering away. Was it worth anything to Michael now?

Poor Michael! Alice felt a momentary pity for her husband. But as she stared at the garden the whole scene once enacted there came before her eyes. Pity vanished and determination took its place.

When Alice reached her room she immediately began to pack. The house was very quiet. Had Michael gone, she wondered. No, there were his street clothes still on the chair. Suddenly she remembered that in the attic were things that she could not bear to leave behind.

Up the long stairs she went to the attic. When she reached the door she found it open. This was strange. She had locked it some time ago and no one had been up there since. She was frightened for a moment. It was unusual that Alice was not afraid for her own safety but rather for the treasures that the attic contained. Bravely she pushed in the door. She was astounded at the intruder she found there. On an old battered trunk, his head bowed and tears streaming between his hands sat Michael. Before him on a dusty chair were her treasures, Pom Pom and Tin Tin, Boy Blue's toys.

ALL SHE HAD LEFT OF HER BOY BLUE

"Michael, what are you doing here?" she almost shouted at him.

"I've come for these," he answered, pointing to the toys.

"You can't have them," Michael Corning! They are all I have left of Boy Blue!" She stood quivering with righteous anger.

"Alice, My God, Alice, don't leave me. I'll go mad if you do. Don't you think that I loved Boy Blue, too? The thought that I caused his death is driving me insane. If you go, I'll . . ." He stopped, smothered by a moan.

In a flash, Alice Corning saw that here was not a murderer, but a man heart-broken and needing her. She knelt beside him and put her arms about him. Softly she said, "All right, Michael, I'll stay. These will not be your treasures, nor my treasures, but ours, dear."

"Ah, faithful to Little Boy Blue
they stand,
Each in the same old place;
Awaiting the touch of a little hand,
The smile of a little face."

THE END.

"Every room in this house is echoing with Boy Blue's cries—his pleading, choking cries."

REDUCING THE WAISTLINE

Since the low waistline in frocks has been superseded by the normal or high one, the problem of reducing wide waistlines has come to the front. Of course, nobody nowadays thinks of squeezing herself with tight corsets as women used to do in period when "wasp waists" were the vogue. Foundation garments are used to give smooth, slim lines to the figure, but they are not the stiff instruments of torture that our great-grandmothers used as corsets.

The modern woman realizes that in order to look slender about the waist, she must get rid of superfluous flabby fat by exercise. Correct posture is also very important. When the figure is held as tall as possible it is actually more slender, especially around the waist, than when it is allowed to slump.

Here are a few exercise suggestions for waist reduction.

Exercise 1.—Rowing. Sit on the floor with knees bent and feet flat on the floor. Bend trunk forward with arms extended out in front at shoulder level. Extend legs straight out in front and at the same time lean backward and pull hands up toward the shoulders as though you were pulling on a pair of oars. Swing trunk forward and bend knees up as in starting position. Repeat the exercise slowly four to ten times.

Exercise 2—Trunk swaying. Stand erect with feet pointing straight forward and heels about three inches apart. Raise arms above head and clasp hands. Swing trunk over to the left as far as you can without lifting feet from floor or bending knees. Bend from waist sideways. Rise and repeat to left and right sides alternately ten times.

Exercise 3 — Trunk twist. Same starting position as above, except that hands are clasped behind neck. Have elbows bent and pressed well back. Twist trunk to right, turning head to left. Bend at waist so that trunk is parallel with floor. Rise and repeat twisting and bending alternately to each side five or six times.

Exercise 4—Sit on the floor with legs out straight in front, feet together, hands on hips. Lower the trunk backward slowly, being careful to keep legs on the floor. If necessary, place feet under some heavy article of furniture. Relax a moment as you lie flat on the floor, then gradually raise trunk to upright position. Rest. Repeat two to four times.

Exercise 5—Lie on your right side on the floor with legs and arms stretched out straight on a line with the body. Keeping knee straight, swing left leg backward and forward like a pendulum ten times. Make the swings as long as possible so that you can feel the waist muscles pulling. Turn on the other side and repeat leg swing with right leg.

LETTERS OF THANKS

Question—Some time ago a man (H. X.) secured a position for me which changed my whole career, because it has given me wonderful chances of advancement. The first time I met Mr. X., three months after I had been placed, I thanked him in a matter-of-fact way, but he seemed very cool. Should I have written him a letter of thanks? I feel that I am giving my new employers quite as much as they are giving me; I do not feel under obligation to them. Should Mr. X. act offended because I haven't written to him? Should he not, rather, be glad that I have done credit to his recommendations?

MISS F.

Answer—People accustomed to the traditional usages of good society follow the Shakespearean maxim, "The poorest service is repaid with thanks." As for greater service, such as was rendered to our correspondent, it was gross rudeness to neglect the sending of a letter of thanks to her benefactor. She may still make amends by writing a note of belated appreciation, telling Mr. X. of her new opportunities and expressing her gratitude to him for opening the way for her advancement. His coolness may be due to disapproval of Miss F.'s unmannerliness rather than to resentment of her quite obvious ingratitude.

Pitiful Children Who Are Victims of Parents Divorced and Remarried—Shall This Girl Marry a Son of Rest?—Single and Glad Of It

DEAR MISS DIX.—I am one of those unfortunates—a child of divorced parents. I have a mother and a near-mother, a father and a near-father. I have two homes, between which I am thrown back and forth like a shuttlecock, and with all of which I feel that I have no real home and no real parents. I don't seem to belong anywhere or to have anybody who belongs to me.

Miss Dix, we children didn't ask to be brought into the world, and when we are born I think our parents owe it to us to stick together and make us a home until we are grown. And I think they are darn poor sports when they don't do it, don't you?

GERALDINE

Answer:

I certainly do, Geraldine. I think that when men and women thrust life upon a poor, little, helpless baby they are in honor bound to see it through and do the best they can to give it the right start in the world.

I don't think that they have any right to consider their own happiness or their own pleasure or their own inclination. It is the child's good that should be of paramount importance to them and because marriage isn't just the picnic they thought it was going to be or because the man doesn't come up to all the woman's romantic dreams or the man gets tired of the woman doesn't give them any right to break up a home and half-orphan poor, helpless, defenceless little kiddies.

Every child has an inalienable right to be brought up in a quiet, peaceful home. Every child has a right to a whole father and a whole mother, and to regular, genuine, blown-in-the-bottle parents.

One of our leading neurologists has made the statement that he has never known a man or woman who was reared in a happy, cheerful home to have a nervous collapse. That fact alone should be enough to make high-tempered, selfish, irritable men and women control themselves just to keep their children from having to pay the price of their fighting.

No wonder the children of the divorced cry out against the injustice that has been done them, as Geraldine does, or that they have become hard and cynical little worldlings who believe in neither God nor man. DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX.—I am a woman 30 years old and for five years have been keeping company with a man who says he loves me very much. He is 40 years old. He hasn't any money and only works part of the time, but he wants me to marry him. Would you do it?

L. E.

Answer:

I certainly wouldn't. Any able-bodied man who has reached the age of 40 without settling down to some steady job isn't worth the powder and lead that it would take to kill him and any woman is an idiot who marries him.

Many women make the mistake of thinking that they can inspire a lazy man to work and that their sacred influence will put vim and energy into him. They believe that as soon as a man realizes that he has a wife and children to support he will get busy doing it. Fatal error.

Marriage works no miracle in a man and when a lazy man gets married he just simply folds his hands and lets his wife do it.

Believe me, my friend, marriage with such a man will bring you nothing but misery. If a man of 40 isn't making a good living, he never will. He has qualified as a charter member of the Sons of Rest and no mere wife can galvanize him into action.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX.—Isn't it strange why girls worry about not finding husbands? When I look around and door sport is arguing, and the husbands who think that wives are made to work like slaves and the husbands who doll themselves up and go out see the husbands whose favorite in-sheiking while the wives stay at home with the babies and the husbands who are gentlemen everywhere except in their own homes, I am glad enough I haven't got one.

SINGLE AND GLAD OF IT.

Answer:

It is a good thing to know when you are well off, sister, and there is no denying that the lot of the spinster who has a good job and her own latchkey and her individual pocketbook and nobody with a legal right to boss her or remind her of her faults, is full of peace and happiness, if she only has sense enough to appreciate it.

For you never can tell until after you get him what sort of husband a man will make.

Here's something charming and chic in redingote—and kindly too if you're inclined to be a wee bit heavy.

You see the collar of the printed crepe silk dress gives a lengthened line, falling softly in rever fashion as it does over the coat of plain crepe silk.

Both the coat and the dress are finished with applied bands that have a tendency to diminish bulk about the hips. The dress sleeve peeps smartly 'neath the seven-eighth length coat sleeve.

It's an excellent ensemble or business or for travel and so splendid for town wear.

Style No. 3083 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 44 and 46 inches bust.

Wool crepe, shantung and many rayon novelties suitable.

Size 36 requires 3⅞ yards, 39-inch for coat, with 4⅝ yards 39-inch for dress.

Patterns will be delivered upon receipt of TWENTY CENTS (20c) in coins carefully wrapped or stamps. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE, NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

Our LATEST FASHION BOOK will be sent upon receipt of FIFTEEN CENTS in coin. Address all mail orders to Pattern Department, Edmonton Bulletin.

Who Are You?

Hoffman

THIS name is taken from the Danish "hoff," meaning court or residence, place. The German is "hofmann," meaning courtier.

The Hoffman family were among those sturdy Scandinavian immigrants who came to this country at the beginning of the seventeenth century.

Martin Hermanzen Hoffman was the founder of the family in the New Netherlands. He was born in Esthonia, on the Gulf of Finland, but went to Holland, where he was living just before his departure for America. In 1658 he settled at Esopus, and later in New York. Martin encountered many difficulties with the Indians and won the enduring admiration and esteem of hi fellow citizens by his bravery in routing the redskins.

There are Hoffmans living in almost every state today. Wherever the name is known it is esteemed for the great respectability of its bearers.

There are 23,000 stones in the Washington monument.

DIVIDE COSTS HEALTH UNITS

Foundation, Province and Municipalities Share

The health units being established at Red Deer and Okotoks-High River under a tripartite agreement between the Rockefeller Foundation, the provincial government and the municipalities concerned are expected to start operations during this month, according to Dr. M. R. Bow, deputy minister of health.

Under Dr. G. W. Little, at Red Deer, and Dr. W. G. Saunders at Okotoks-High River, organization of office work is proceeding, while other preparations are being pushed rapidly forward.

Both physicians have had special courses in the work in which they are to be engaged.

At Red Deer quarters have been obtained in the old court house building, while at High River the unit will be located in a downtown office building.

Each unit will have a general office, a nurses office, office for the sanitary inspector, a laboratory and a general clinic room.

The work of the units will be mainly preventative medicine with instruction given to school children and others in methods of preventing the contraction and spread of disease and other matters.

The Rockefeller Foundation has assisted in establishing such units in several provinces of Canada and some states of the U.S. Arrangements for the location of the two in Alberta were made through Hon. George Hoadley, minister of agriculture and health.

W. J. Dean and E. E. Miller, officials of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company, were registered at the Macdonald hotel Wednesday. They arrived by plane from The Pas.

FORMER CITY POSTMASTER SMITH DIES

Was 47 Years, Many in Edmonton, Worked for Government

Frederick Smith, former postmaster of the Edmonton postal division, and for 47 years a member of the Dominion post office department, died early Wednesday morning of a heart attack which climaxed an illness of two weeks.

For the last four days his heart had grown steadily weaker and toward the end he lapsed into a state of coma from which he did not recover.

Mr. Smith was born at Cobourg, Ont., on Dec. 2, 1859, the youngest son of the late Hon. Sidney Smith, who served as a member of the cabinet of Sir John A. Macdonald, prior to Confederation.

He first entered the public service in 1882, enlisting his services with the post office department.

For 47 years he served in various capacities at Ottawa, Toronto, Port Arthur, Lethbridge and this city. He was the mail clerk on the first mail train to leave Ottawa on the now defunct Canada Atlantic railway.

For 36 years he served as a post office inspector and on August 1, 1925, was appointed postmaster of the Edmonton division. He held this office until Jan. 1, 1930, when, under superannuation provisions, he was retired.

Always active in working for the welfare of the community and of his friends, Mr. Smith leaves a wide circle to mourn his passing.

He is survived by his wife, one son, S. Bruce Smith, a member of the legal firm of McGillivray, Helman & Smith, Calgary, and one daughter, Mrs. C. Gerald O'Connor, of this city.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Many Organizations Will Attend Labor Unemploym't Meet

Definite arrangements for the meeting called by the Edmonton Trades and Labor council for Friday night to consider what steps can be taken to assist the city council and other authorities to grapple with the unemployment problem, will be completed at a meeting to be held at the Labor Temple on Wednesday night.

The meeting further will endeavor to obtain authentic information as to the exact nature of the situation.

Several organizations already have signified their intention of attending, while it is believed that by nightfall a practically 100 per cent. answer to the invitation will have been received.

C. Walker, charged with assault, was granted an adjournment until June 12.

MUNICIPALITY PROBLEMS ARE THRESHED OUT

Can Consolidate Arrears of Taxes Over Five-year Period

Municipal districts that desire to take advantage of the provision for consolidating arrears of taxes over a five-year period, will have to pass their bylaws by August 1, according to a statement made by Robert English, acting deputy minister of municipal affairs, on Wednesday, to the ninth annual convention of the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts Secretary treasurers, now in session at the legislative buildings.

This point, said Mr. English, was of considerable importance to all municipalities in the province and it was provided under the consolidation system that municipalities must pay their 1931 taxes in full and then their arrears in annual instalments over a five-year period.

BRADY PRESIDES

Between 80 and 100 are in attendance at the convention, which is being presided over by the president, W. J. Brady, of Edberg, M. D. No. 427.

At the opening of the morning session, the delegates gathered in the council chamber of the legislative buildings and were officially welcomed to this city by Hon. R. G. Reid, provincial treasurer and minister of municipal affairs. He stated that in the past he had been the secretary-treasurer of a municipality and therefore had an understanding of and a complete sympathy with the problems with which they were confronted.

Mr. English's address partook, for the most part, of an explanation of recently enacted legislation beairng on municipal districts.

In regard to the Debt Adjustment act, he said that one clause definitely and explicitly pointed out that being brought under this act definitely stayed any tax recovery proceedings, a feature which would have to be fully recognized.

Dealing with seetd grain relief, Mr. English said that it was important that secretaries remember that interest rates on seed grain relief should be four and one-half per cent—no more—as this was the rate at which the Dominion government was loaning the money.

It was also pointed out that every municipal district was a collecting agency for school taxes as well as for its own and that borrowing powers of each such district went up to 100 per cent. of its levy.

Mr. English urged the delegates to put their estimates on a cash basis. Many districts had had their estimates investigated by the department and in nearly every case they had been reduced.

BANKERS SHY

W. Ross Alger spoke to the delegates on the question of finance. He said that the financial houses of Eastern Canada were at present lukewarm in their desire to lend money in Alberta owing to prevailing conditions, but they probably would be satisfied if the farmers could break even this year. They were all disposed to think that Alberta would come through this period of depression as it had before.

Any municipal district wishing to raise debenture issues against arrears by consolidating them, he thought would be able to do so, but only after considerable negotiation and with each case being treated solely on its own merits. He felt that the issues could be satisfactorily placed for five year periods, probably at seven per cent., though even this would necessarily be the subject of considerable negotiation.

Gordon Stewart, chief inspector of the Dominion seed branch, and E. I. Gray, provincial field crops commissioner, spoke briefly on seed grain, stating that the relief plans were working well and that all demands had been met.

At the Wednesday afternoon session addresses were given by Hon. J. F. Lymburn, attorney general, and A. H. Tovell, chairman of the provincial hail insurance board.

Mayor Davison, of Calgary arrived in the city on Wednesday for the purpose of attending the provincial conference on unemployment on Thursday. This will open at the parliament buildings during the morning and will be attended by Mayor Douglas as the representative of the city.

Diogenes Can Quit; Lady Luck's on Job

Lady Luck just hovers over some people and K. Gordon, of Gordon's Grocery, 10020 101A Avenue, must be one of them, according to city police reports.

Shortly after 6 p.m. Saturday, when the rush and turmoil of business was over for another week, Mr. Gordon left his store with an armful of parcels, the most important of which were two parcels tied together and containing the sum of $300. Depositing the parcels on the running board of the car, Mr. Gordon attended to some other business and when he got into the car, forgot the parcels and drove off.

The inevitable happened. The bags fell from the car and with them the $300. Mr. Gordon notified the police, and spent an anxious hour or so.

Shortly after 7 p.m. Mrs. Peter Butti, of 10271 97 Street, turned the bags of money into the city police station. Needless to say, Mr. Gordon called for his wealth shortly afterwards.

Grade 9 Teaching Proves Problem To City School Board

Grade nine education, which has been a vexed matter before the board for some months in an effort to beat the accommodation problem, was again to the fore at Tuesday night's meeting of the Edmonton public school board.

First was a recommendation of the recently dissolved high school advisory committee, which suggested that grade nine terminal classes be established in schools where this is feasible, meaning by this the establishment of grade nine for such pupils who did not wish to take studies beyond grade nine. The matter was referred to a committee consisting of Messrs. G. A. McKee, Yule, Hughes and Bailey. The two first named are superintendent and assistant superintendent of the board, respectively; Mr. Hughes is the Public School Teachers' Alliance representative to the board, and Mr. Bailey is principal of the Technical school.

Ask Service Clubs to Aid Returned Soldier

Now on City Relief, He Wants to Get Back to His Farm and be Independent—Needs a Little Help

Edmonton service clubs are to be asked to assist the Canadian Legion in putting James Powell, unemployed war veteran, back on the farm, where he can make a living for himself and family of wife and seven children.

Letters to the presidents of the various service clubs are being prepared and will be delivered by Powell himself. Meanwhile the lists are open at the Canadian Legion for all who desire to assist Powell to get back on the farm, which he may lose, together with all his life savings, if he is not able to work it.

So far contributions to the $500 fund required to assist Powell have only reached the $55 mark, but there is promise of other assistance in the way of loan of horses forthcoming.

"All I need is enough to get off the bread line here and on to the farm. If I get there in time I'll be able to raise enough this summer to look after the family in the winter," said Powell, who has been vainly endeavoring to raise a loan to get back on the land. The farm, near Fawcett, has 50 acres broken and farm buildings in which the family can be comfortable. At the present time the father, mother and seven children are living in two rooms, eight feet by ten feet.

"I don't want my children to grow up under such conditions. We can't look after them properly this way, and if we can get them out to the farm they'll have a chance. That's all I'm asking for—a chance to get off the bread line, be self-supporting, and bring my family up healthily and happily."

He's an ex-serviceman, willing to work, with a family, a farm to go to and asks a chance to get off the bread line. Who'll give it to him?

FAIL TO FIND NOAH BENTLEY LONG MISSING

Left Rocky Mt. House for Edmonton by Saskatchewan River

Noah Newcombe Bentley is still missing, for no taroes were found of the 75-year-old timber cruiser by an Alberta Provincial Police patrol headed by Constable Pattie, Rocky Mountain House, which made the long journey by river from Mountain House to here in eight days.

According to the report turned into headquarters by Constable Pattie, who arrived in the city on Tuesday night at the end of his 250-mile water trail, every trapper's cabin along the banks was investigated, as were all the backwaters, eddies and sandbars along the river.

The patrol learned that Bentley had been seen near the junction of the Baptiste river with the North Saskatchewan, 30 miles down river from Mountain House, and 18 miles downstream from he had previously been reported last seen. That was before the patrol started one.

According to the police information, Bentley had a sail on his boat when last seen and was just entering a bad stretch of river, where there was fast water and a number of big log jams. At that time, also the water was low, which made it a lot worse in the bad spots. No traces were found of the boat either, but there are a thousand spots in which it might have been overlooked.

The patrol landed below the mouth of the Brazeau river, in the Drayton Valley section, and searched inland for some distance, as there are some good stands of timber in that section and it was thought that the old timber cruiser might have been camped inland, looking over the stand. A number of cabins were searched in this area also.

Bentley left Mountain House early in May. He has a number of well-to-do relations in the city who are worrying about his prolonged absence.

New Regulations For Normal School Entrance Outlined

The following are the revised regulations for the admission of students to Normal school during 1931-32, according to a letter received by Supt. G. A. McKee from G. Fred McNally, supervisor of schools for the provincial department of education, and read to trustees at Tuesday night's meeting of the Edmonton Public School board.

Applicants must be 18 on or before June 30, 1932, to train as teachers for first class certificates; secured grade 11 or equivalent standing during 1930 or earlier, whether they have attained the age mentioned or not.

First consideration will be given to those holding grade 12 diplomas, or its equivalent or higher standing.

Next in order will come those holding the grade 11 diploma and standing in four or more of the units of the fourth high school year.

The remaining places will be filled from applicants holding the grade 11 diplomas, in order of their standing on the departmental examinations.

MEN SEEKING RELIEF KICK AT TREATMENT

Mayor to Investigate Complaints—Applicants Told to Wait

Another small army of unemployed single men plodded up the city hall stairs on Wednesday morning.

"We want to see the 'Meeyer'", they asked.

Mayor Douglas came out to see them and was greeted with a torrent of words which were all to the effect that the men were hungry and had not eaten, and they can get no attention at the relief station.

As for the porridge which the mayor suggested they might fill up with in the interim, it is impossible to eat the stuff, they said.

PORRIDGE RAW

"It is raw, said a man. "Why the man there, he is the worst cook in the world. All you can eat is just the little milk that goes with it and that is only a spoonful.'

The mayor told the men that they should go back and they will receive attention in due time.

He subsequently ascertained that the officials at the relief office are registering first of all the men who were on the city list of relief last winter. The newcomers will be dealt with afterwards.

From Tuesday morning to mid-day on Wednesday, 275 men had been examined and registered. These men are receiving meal tickets and beds.

1,000 IN WANT.

There are said to be over 1,000 men needing relief. Many are told to come back next day when they apply for food.

The men working for the city at the relief office are S. Campbell, R. C. Rathbone and M. Sellars.

A meeting of the city unemployment committee has been called for 4:30 on Wednesday afternoon, and it is anticipated that some action will be taken in respect to hastening proceedings at the office.

Mayor Douglas announced his intention of visiting the porridge kitchen immediately and finding out if anything is wrong with the cooking and the food served.

Complaints are also being made as to the sleeping accommodations that is being given, the men contending that the cheap boarding houses where they are sleeping all the rooms are overcrowded.

Rampaging Ferry Manoeuvred Ashore

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

PEACE RIVER, June 10.—The ferry which broke loose at Dunvegan at 2 a.m. Tuesday is reported to have been manoeuvred to the shore 25 miles down the river by Oscar Johnson, well known business man of the north who remained with the 15 lady passengers on board after the recoil of the cut cable had thrown ferryman Holmquist into the raging waters of the Peace.

The lady occupants of the ferry, five car-loads of them commenced their journey home after successfully landing in the lifeboat that the two men passengers launched for them.

Harry Weaver of the Beulah boat company has been requisitioned by the resident engineer to take a launch up the Peace and tow the ferry to Peace River.

NEW MASONIC TEMPLE NOW THROWN OPEN

Delegates From All Parts of Province Attend Solemn Ceremony

Shortly after 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon the solemn ceremony of the dedication of Edmonton's new Masonic Temple took place, witnessed by several hundreds of Masons who gathered in the city Wednesday to attend the opening of the 26th annual convention of the Grand Lodge of Alberta.

The convention is of special interest this year, since it also marks the opening of Western Canada's most beautiful Masonic Temple.

The corner stone of the building was laid last year, and since that time contractors have hurried to finish building operations in order that the temple might be ready to house the Grand Lodge convention this year.

HIGH OFFICIALS

High officials of the order are attending the convention, as well as many hundreds of Masons of the rank and file from all parts of western Canada. Dignitaries attending the function include Dr. S. M. Snedden, grand master of Alberta, Ponoka; J. H. W. Kemmis, grand secretary for the province, Calgary; Canon D. S. Middleton, head of the Indian Institute, Cardston; G. M. Blackstock, Medicine Hat, senior grand warden for Alberta; S. Blair, grand secretary for Alberta of the Order of the Eastern Star, Calgary; J. T. Dargavel, grand master for Ontario; Dr. George Kerby, of the Mount Royal College, Calgary, grand master. There are also several officials from eastern Canada and the Pacific coast in attendance.

On Tuesday the board of general purposes of Grand Lodge met in the temple, and at 10 a.m. Wednesday the official opening of the convention was carried out.

DOORS LOCKED

Dr. Snedden, grand master, officiated at the opening of Grand Lodge and the dedication ceremony, which took place behind locked lodge room doors.

About 400 delegates are attending the convention, and it is expected that in the neighborhood of 600 Masons will sit down to the annual banquet Wednesday evening. The convention will be concluded Thursday.

Judgment was reserved by Mr. Justice A. F. Ewing in the supreme court on Wednesday in the action for $10,000 damages brought by Henry Cherniak against Robert Parsons as a result of an accident on the Fort Saskatchewan trail on September 25 last in which William Cherniak, young son of plaintiff, received mortal injuries. George B. O'Connor, K.C., and J. K. Macdonald acted for plaintiff and W. J. A. Mustard for defendant.

Police Court

Social item: Among recent arrivals in the city who appeared in city police court on Wednesday before Magistrate G. B. McLeod, were Chas. Harrison and Jack Harrison, Joe Wilk and Jack Wilk, Paul Chelyvhuk, Karl Rodesky, and Leo Harzerger.

It seems they come in on side door Pullmans, vulgarly known as box-cars, and were charged with breaches of the Railway Act when they appeared before Magistrate G. B. McLeod.

Jack Harrison had a bandaged hand; he had had it jammed between a couple of box cars. He was destitute, so His Worship thought that it would be a good thing for him to go to jail, where he would get medical attention, and he was fined $15 and costs, with the option of 15 days in jail, his brother got the same.

The others all said that they had jobs to go to, so they were given a remand until July 30, which means, in effect, that they better be far away from here on that date.

Sometimes it's a mistake to get married; in the case of John Palou, it looks as though it's going to be a mistake not to be married, according to allegations made by the city relief department, who had Palou arrested on a charge of theft.

Palou is alleged to have got $31 worth of groceries from the city under the plea that he was a destitute married man, but investigators say that Palou, while living with a woman, had omitted to go through the ceremony of matrimony with her. The case was set over until June 12.

Alex R. Norton was remanded for decision until June 12 on a charge of theft. It is alleged that he secured some household furniture from a local merchant and then sold the goods to a second hand dealer before they were paid for.

No charge of attempting to escape from custody was laid against Norton. He was not technically under arrest when he darted out of the police station Tuesday forenoon after being brought in by Detective Wm. McDonald for investigation.

Cliff Walberg, charged with vagrancy, was given one month in jail.

GLENORA CLUB TENNIS CROWN TO GUNDERSON

Defeats Stan Moher In Thrilling Match Yesterday

After leading 5-2 in the fifth set of what proved the most thrilling and keenly-contested match of this year's Glenora Tennis Club championship tournament, Sta Moher faltered before the steady stroking of Elner Gunderson in the men's open singles final Tuesday evening and the latter went on to wi the title by scores of 6-2, 3-6, 3-6, 6-4, 8-6.

Going into the last set on even terms after four exceptionally hard sets had been played, Moher assumed command of the play right at the start and proceeded to amass a lead that finally became 5-2. It was at this stage, however, that he weakened, and Gunderson, maintainig his consistent pace, began to cut down the lead which Moher had established. He overtook the younger star eventually and forged to the front to win the final and deciding set at 8-6.

STARTS WELL

Gunderson started the match well when he took the first set in fairly handy fashion by 6-2. Then, in the second, he appeared to ease up somewhat, and Moher, taking advantage of every opportunity presented, came up on even terms by taking the set at 6-3. Moher continued to press in the third and his fine display of all-round stroking gave him the set, again by a 6-3 score. Rallying at this time, Gunderson threw everything at his command into the fourth set to win, 6-4, and the annexed the championship by taking the fifth.

Throughout the match the gallery was treated to some fine tennis as the two finalists gave everything they had in an effort to win the premier honors of the tournament. Exciting rallies and spurts of exceeding brilliance by one or other of the players tended to keep the gallery of enthusiasts on edge from start to finish. It proved a great match for Gunderson to win and not an easy one to lose.

PLAYS STEADILY

The champion, while at times not reaching his best form, played steadily all the way and had enough in reserve to finally come through and gain the ultimate victory.

Moher, in proving himself a real match for the big, blonde winner, showed flashes of the brilliant form that he gave promise of five years ago when he was city, provincial and Western Canada junior champion.

In the consolation event, also played yesterday, Tom Bellamy won from Fraser Goddard in straight sets by scores of 8-6, 7-5.

PATS and PANS by BILL LEWIS

A couple of weeks or so back, there were many of our baseball-going citizens who were more than a little disgruntled and discouraged over the prospective entertainment in the local ball circuits for this semester. They had by that time seen the first few contests and had decided that the calibre of the diamond pastime on display here this year would be no better—and would probably be worse—than that seen in our city the last few seasons. Such a prospect was not a pleasing one to them. Frankly, they looked ahead to a rather dismal summer if the class of their favorite pastime was going to deteriorate any further. It had been none too good in previous years, they reasoned, and if it was to become any worse—well, they'd just have to find some other outlet for their cheers and jeers other than at the amateur ball tiffs at Boyle Street Park. Now, however, this outlook on the part of the fans has undergone a change.

Last night one of the bleacher "regulars" told your reporter that he was pleasantly surprised at the good brand of ball the amateur clubs had been playing recently. And he was not the first to give words to his thought, during the last week, in particular.

Reasons for the improvement in the calibre of baseball played here of late are not hard to find, at that. There are more than just a few newcomers here this season whose presence on the various clubs has just begun to be felt. That, to my mind, is one of the big reasons. Then, too, there is the undeniable fact that the majority of the teams are beginning to play smarter baseball than formerly. Most of them used to be content to put on their uniforms and go through some motions that were supposed to represent a ball game. Now, it seems to me, the players are out there actually trying to play smart baseball—and they are succeeding. That, I would say, is the biggest reason for the improvement.

If the players and teams on the whole continue trying to play smarter baseball and to look smarter in the field, we are in for a far better season than appeared to be in the offing earlier this spring.

Soccer officials, with arrangements for English touring team's game here Saturday now completed, are awaiting the arrival of the old country party here tomorrow night, when a reception will be held at the Canadian National Railways station and a parade staged from the depot to the Macdonald Hotel in honor of the visitors. These annual visits of old country teams are a big thing with soccer followers in all parts of the Dominion, and Edmonton officials and fans are determined not to lag behind other cities in their treatment of this team which has yet to lose a game during the current tour.

A real round of entertainment has been arranged for the English party during its stay in this city, which lasts from tomorrow until Saturday night, but the big thing, of course, is the game—and it should be plenty good.

Tennis at its exciting best was witnessed last night in the men's open singles final of the Glenora Tennis Club championships, when Elner Gunderson pulled out with a hard-earned victory in five sets over Stan Moher. The battle raged on and on between these two clubmates for the right to hold the singles crown for the ensuing year, with first one leading and then the other.

That match had quite a climax, too, what with Gunderson forging up to win, 8-6, in the final set, after Moher appeared to have the match and the title in the bag when he was leading by 5-2.

But Retain Leadership In Pacific Coast Loop Despite Loss

Canadian Press

LOS ANGELES, Calif., June 10 — A ninth inning rally in which Barbes hit a home run was not enough for Hollywood stars to win from the Portland Ducks in a Coast League ball game here last night. At San Francisco, the lowly Seattle Indians defeated the Seals 11 to 9, in a wild game which saw seven pitchers on the mound. The Indians won the game in a ninth-inning rally which netted three runs.

Oakland lost another game at home last night, Los Angeles Angles taking a 7 to 0 victory from the tailenders.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 10—Youngest member of the famous hockey family, Robert James "Bobby" Boucher, died here last night after a long illness. Like his brothers, George, Billy and Frank, Bobby was a major league hockey player at one time and had played with numerous minor league professional and amateur teams. He retired from the game in 1929 because of ill-health.

After learning the game in Ottawa, Bobby went to Iroquois Falls in 1921. Three years later he signed with Montreal Canadiens and subsequently played with Vancouver, Edmonton, London, Quebec and Newark. His father, Tom Boucher, famous old-time football player, died here March 17 last.

LANCASHIRE CRICKETERS IN TOP FORM

Reaching True Stride in County Cricket; Beat Middlesex Tuesday

Canadian Press Cable

LONDON, June 10.—Lancashire champion English cricket county, after a wobbly start this season, seem now to have struck their stride. Tuesday they defeated Middlesex by 63 runs, a fine performance. Burly Dick Tyldesley was a tower of strength to the champions. Wiping out Middlesex's effort to win in their second innings by taking six wickets for 55 runs.

A stout stand by Harry Storer, who made 80, not out, enabled Derbyshire to get a first innings lead and the majority of the points on Nottinghamshire at Ilkeston.

Kent easily disposed of Leicester by an innings and 19 runs. Kent made 300 for five wickets, declared, and Leicester 148 (Freeman, five wickets for 68 runs) and, following on, 133 (Freeman five wickets for 53 runs).

Hampshire and Warwickshire drew. Scores were: Hampshire 305; Warwickshire, 194 for five wickets.

MATCH ABANDONED.

Rain again prevented play in the match at Hull between Yorkshire and Sussex, and it was abandoned, each side taking four points in the championship table. Not a ball was bowled in the game.

At the Kennington Oval, the Wicket through rain, was in such a condition that the captains of the Surrey and Essex clubs decided further play was impossible. Surrey, therefore, won on the first innings. Scores were: Surrey 285; Essex 227.

At Bath, the Somerset-New Zealand fixture was left drawn with scores of Somerset, 244 and 201 for nine wickets (Weir five wickets for 57 runs); New Zealand, 255.

Northamptonshire beat Glamorganshire at Kettering by five wickets, scores being Glamorgan 114 and 156 (Dyson, 75, not out); Northants, 190 and 81 for five wickets.

EIDELWEISS PLAY HEARTS

Edmonton Hearts will oppose the Eidelweiss eleven in a scheduled second division league soccer fixture at Diamond Park on Thursday night, with the kick-off being timed for seven o'clock sharp.

Both of these clubs are in need of a victory to keep up in the second division race, and a keenly-contested game is looked for.

Dick Ball will referee the match.

By BILL LEWIS

With Pitcher Wally Passmore playing the star role, the Alberta Hotel Pelicans scored a smashing shutout triumph over St. Albert in last night's Big Four Amateur Baseball league game at Boyle Street Park, the final score being 15 to 0.

Hurling a fine brand of ball throughout the contest, Passmore allowed the out-of-town team but six hits, which he kept well scattered, and was never in danger at any stage of the battle that lacked in interest due to the one-sidedness of the score. In addition to his fine performance on the hillock, the Pelican twirler led his mates on the attack by pounding out four hits in as many trips to the plate.

Hard hitting right at the start gave the Hotelmen five runs in the first inning of the affair. They counted one more in the second, another in the fourth and then increased their total to 10 with a theer-run splurge in the fifth. They completed their total with another five run scoring orgy in the eighth frame.

USE TWO HURLERS.

Unable to get any telling blows themselves, St. Albert used a pair of hurlers in an attempt to halt the slugging of the Alberta Hotel hitters but to no avail. "Chief" Phil Gladu started on the mound for the visitors and was relieved by Poirier after the first thee batters to face him had hit safely. He took over first base and remained there for six innings until Poirier, after pitching a fair kind of ball, weakened, and had to have Gladu finish the game.

Two four-base blows were recorded during the battle, Clayton Dolighan connecting with one of Gladu's slants in the first inning for the circuit, while Smith smashed out a long fly in the seventh that was good for a round trip.

Liberals Play Bulls Tonight At Boyle St.

Stockyard Bulls will clash with the Young Liberals tonight in a Senior Amateur Baseball League fixture at Boyle Street Park that is timed to get under way at 6:30 o'clock sharp.

A bitterly-fought battle is looked for in this game, the result of which means so much to both teams. A victory for the Young Liberals would not change that club's position in the league standing, but it would help greatly to close the gap that separates them from the second-place South Side aggregation. A win for the Bulls, however, would lift them out of the cellar position and place them half a game in front of the Politicians. With this much for the teams to fight for, a real struggle is expected by officials and fans.

The league standing is as follows:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Imperials	4	2	.667
South Siders	3	2	.600
Young Liberals	2	3	.400
Stockyard Bulls	2	4	.333

FAVORITES WIN OPENING ROUND GOLF MATCHES

All Successfully Advance In British Women's Meet Tuesday

Associated Press

PORTMARNOCK, Ireland, June 10—Favorites advanced Tuesday in the first round matches of the British Ladies' golf championship, with Enid Wilson, Diana Fishwick and Molly Gourlay leading the British entrants and Maureen Orcutt, lone United States entrant, successfully advancing to the second round.

Play Tuesday was on soggy fairways and inundated greens owing to the rain of the past few days, although the weather overhead was better

Miss Fishwick, who was expected to have considerable trouble yesterday with Miss Rhoma Rabbidge, champion of Middlesex, gave her supporters something to cheer about with a clean cut five-and-three victory, while Miss Wilson won almost as easily from Miss P. Russell-Montgomery, the former Scottish champion, four and three Miss Gourlay had the closest call winning from Mrs. J. H. Todd on the home green, one up.

Boys Howdy Is Winner Tuesday

Canadian Press

TORONTO, Ont., June 10.—Making his first appearance this season at the Longbranch Track, H. C. Hatch's Boys Howdy was easy winner of the feature event, the Humber, at a mile and 70 yards for three-year-olds. Boys Howdy led R. H. New's Wrackell to the wire by a length. Montanaro, coupled with the winner, took show position.

Long shots galloped home ahead of the field in six of the seven races on the day's card. Boys Howdy was the only favorite to win.

Glenna Collett to Wed

They'll be a permanent twosome soon, will Glenna Collett, famed woman golfer, and Edwin H. Vare, who are pictured here. Mrs. George H. Collett, of Greenwich, Conn., has announced the engagement of her daughter to Vare, the son of the late Edwin H. Vare, who was a state senator of Pennsylvania and a Republican leader in Philadelphia. Miss Collett is one of the world's leading women.

Three Feature Races Tuesday At Connaught

Canadian Press

CONNAUGHT PARK, Que., June 10—Three feature races the Directors' Purse and Aylmer and Gatineau handicaps, combined Tuesday to make the sixth day at Connaught Park one of the best of the spring meeting.

Mrs. Rex. Cooper's Elizabeth won the Directors' Purse. A. Smith's flashing Gem took the Gatineau, and the Seagram Stable's Darksini captured the Aylmer. All were well contested.

Best price of the day was paid by Roscomar, second in the third, race which returned $29.80, Tonito, winner of the sixth paid $29.25 and Flashing Gem $26 00.

M'LARNIN IS SOUGHT FOR OAKLAND GO

Jimmy Demands Larger Share of Cash Than Champion Gets

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—The demands of Jimmy McLarnin for the larger share of the gate receipts in a welterweight title fight may bring about that ephemeral possibility of a welterweight title contest on the Pacific Coast.

Promoter Louis Parente is after a Young Jack Thompson-Young Corbett III, welterweight title go in Oakland on either June 29 or in the middle of July.

Ray Alvis, manager of Thompson, has heretofore declared that Corbett should go out and get a reputation, but it seems that now Thompson is the one who is told the same thing by McLarnin.

It may be that McLarnin is still doubtful about his ability to repeat the close nod he got over Thompson the last time they met, or else figures his services as a drawing card are more valuable than Thompson's as a champion.

There are just two boxers for Thompson to meet—McLarnin and Corbett—and while McLarnin doesn't seem too willing and Corbett is over-anxious, there is still that will o' the wisp opportunity ahead of Corbett

The Fresno forkhander is willing to fight Thompson for nothing, while McLarnin wants some of the receipts.

Is the waggle of any importance?

The golfer who tries for direction and for the correct follow through is benefited greatly by the preliminary waggle. It is a splendid means of loosening tight wrists and does away with any tense feeling

For the beginner learning to hit a ball, the waggle comes in handy He may improve his swing by emulating the action at the moment of impact of club-head and ball and the low follow-through along the direction line.

LATE RALLIES BEAT DETROIT TUESDAY, 12-3

Offer Serious Threat To A's But Lose Out Late in Game

Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 10 — Aided by Manager Bucky Harris, who had not played a full game from the time he left Washington in 1928 to Monday, Detroit Tigers offered a real threat to Philadelphia Athletics for six innings Tuesday. But they weakened sadly in the last two and Philadelphia won 12 to 3, to sweep the four-game series

A hit by Harris started the Tigers off ahead in the third inning and Detroit held a 3-2 lead going into the last half of the seventh. Then came the deluge of Philadelphia hits—and defeat

WASHINGTON, D. C. June 10 — Senators defeated Chicago 9 to 3 Tuesday, to sweep the four-game series and keep their season's record against the White Sox clean

NOTED COACH APPROVES OF RULE CHANGES

Al Ritchie, of Regina, On Improvements Made Recently

Canadian Press

REGINA, Sask., June 10.—If the opinion of Al Ritchie, noted coach of the Regina Patricias, can be taken as any criterion, hockey mentors throughout Western Canada are well pleased with the changes recently written into the rules governing the amateur game

"When the C. A. H. A. decided to allow kicking the puck up as far as the defending team's blue line, they certainly took a big step toward speeding up the game," said Ritchie. "There will be considerably less bell ringing in the future and faster hockey in the central ice zone is bound to result."

Discussing the decision of the C. A. H. A. to allow four "subs" instead of three, as formerly, the Pats' coach remarked: "Nothing pleases me more. Next season I intend to use, as a fourth sub, a good utility man who can help out on the defence and the attack, and if a forward becomes crippled during a game, the fourth man will more than justify the C. A. H. A. innovation.

"I wish, however," Ritchie mused, "that the moguls had gone a step farther and permitted the switching of players at any time during a contest, and not merely when play is stopped. I would like to see the boys stream to and from the players' box while the puck actually is in play. They do this in professional hockey, and it helps to speed up the play."

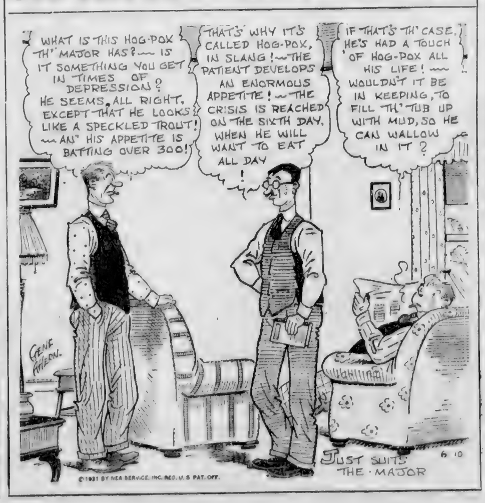
OUR BOARDING HOUSE - - By Ahern



WHAT IS THIS HOG-POX TH' MAJOR HAS?— IS IT SOMETHING YOU GET IN TIMES OF DEPRESSION? HE SEEMS ALL RIGHT, EXCEPT THAT HE LOOKS LIKE A SPECKLED TROUT! — AN' HIS APPETITE IS BATTING OVER 300!
THAT'S WHY IT'S CALLED HOG-POX, IN SLANG! — THE PATIENT DEVELOPS AN ENORMOUS APPETITE! — THE CRISIS IS REACHED ON THE SIXTH DAY, WHEN HE WILL WANT TO EAT ALL DAY!
IF THAT'S TH' CASE, HE'S HAD A TOUCH OF HOG-POX ALL HIS LIFE! — WOULDN'T IT BE IN KEEPING, TO FILL TH' TUB UP WITH MUD, SO HE CAN WALLOW IN IT?

THE MELODY GIRL

By RUTH DEWEY GROVES

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BERYL BORDEN loves TOMMY WILSON and prevents his elopement with her half-sister, IRENE EVERETT. The latter is furious when she fails and beryl secures a radio contract. Beryl tries to forget her hopless love by going to parties with PRENTISS GAYLORD. Irene learns Prentiss is rich and tries to win him from Beryl.

Tommy's aunt dies and he loses both job and money through her husband. Tommy tells Irene and she breaks their engagement. When Prentiss asks her to marry him she agrees. In despair Tommy drinks heavily. Beryl finds him and tries to cheer him up. Fearing Beryl will expose her deceit, Irene slips away and marries Prentiss.

Beryl develops a serious throat malady and a noted specialist advises rest and caution. She disobeys when she hears that Tommy has joined a gang of bootleggers. She slips out in bad weather to beg him to leave them. Her throat becomes worse and she is told that her singing career is over. When Tommy hears this and realises it was to save him that she made the sacrifice he reforms and resolves to go back to college. He attends night classes, working at a garage during the day. He and Beryl enjoy many outings together. Then Irene wires that she is coming home.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVII

MRS. EVERETT'S face was beaming when she handed the telegram to Beryl. On the short journey from the front door to Beryl's room she had built magic plans for the near future.

Beryl read the message at a glance and handed it back.

"There!" her mother declared triumphantly. "Irene is coming home to help us. I knew she would do something!"

"She only said she's coming home," Beryl ventured.

"Now you needn't start talking like that," Mrs. Everett returned. "I won't have you picking on her while she's here. You and her father have said enough about her. And I should think you'd look a little happier, since you've been so anxious to have her help us."

"To help you and Dad," Beryl corrected. "Please don't give Irene the impression that I wanted her to do anything for me," she added wearily.

Her mother dropped the subject then and took up the matter of preparing a fitting reception for Irene.

"We must get her room ready," she said, "and I think I'll go into the city to meet her. We'll be back to dinner about seven if we can make the 5:34. I suppose you can do the cooking. I'll make an oyster omelette for Irene when I get home. Be sure to get some mushrooms. I don't suppose the poor child has had one of those omelettes since she left home. It's my own recipe."

"Poor child......" Beryl was repeating in her mind.

"And we ought to have pineapple mousse. You'd better get up and help me. There are a thousand things to do."

"I'll get the dinner ready and leave it," Beryl said, getting out of bed.

"What do you mean?"

"I've promised to drive Tommy to Long Island City," she explained. "He can't use his commutation ticket until tomorrow. We planned to have dinner together before he goes to his classes."

"Well!" Mrs. Everett halted and stood arms akimbo. "That would be a pretty way to act. But I won't have it! You shan't treat your sister so shamefully. I'll just call Tommy up and tell him you're staying home."

"Irene could have let us know sooner," Beryl declared. "I'm not going to break a date with Tommy just because she waits until the last minute to telephone she's coming home."

* * *

MRS. EVERETT, knowing it would do no good to argue with her, turned angrily away. But when Beryl went down to breakfast her mother felt constrained to voice her opinion of a person who cared more for an outsider than for a member of the family.

"An outsider," Beryl repeated the word. It had an odd sound to her in connection with Tommy. Tommy an outsider! ...

"You needn't smile like that," her mother told her. "I know you don't care what I say and maybe you think other people won't criticize you but you can't convince me that Tommy will think any the better of you for putting him before your sister."

Swiftly the smile fled from Beryl's lips. Her mother was pleased to see the change to seriousness, but when Beryl spoke she gave her no further satisfaction.

"Tommy will understand," she said quietly.

Perhaps her mother sensed that she was fighting a deep-rooted fear for she remarked, "You seem to forget that Tommy was in love with Irene."

Consternation showed in Beryl's eyes in spite of her effort to face her mother calmly. "That's why I believe he will understand," she said. "He was in love with Irene, but he's changed. He's grown up now. I don't believe he could turn back if he wanted to."

"Well," her mother said, "I certainly hope he won't be interested in a married woman. But he's an old friend of Irene's just the same and he isn't going to approve of your slighting her."

"I'll take a chance," Beryl announced and fled immediately. She couldn't stand another word of her mother's harangue. The best way to escape it would be to do something to appease her, and that meant doing something for Irene.

BERYL set herself to turning Irene's room inside out with a vigor that her mother could hear downstairs. The rugs came up and were thrown out the window. The mattress was hauled up on the foot of the bed to air and the furniture was piled in the middle of the room when Mrs. Everett came in to inspect the work.

She was satisfied. She did not see Beryl's face, for when Beryl heard her footsteps on the stairs she hastily applied herself to polishing the window panes.

"I think you might make the bed up with the pinke sheets," Mrs. Everett said pleasantly enough. "I've washed them but they'll have to be ironed."

"All right," Beryl muttered. "I'll see to it."

Her mother went on to her own room and Beryl uttered a prayer of gratitude. She couldnt have said much just then.

A sickening foreboding had turned the day which for weeks she had been looking forward to into a dismal parody of what she had hoped it would be. Tommy's victory was overshadowed by Irene's return. She need not tell him of it today or tonight, but tomorrow he must know. Everybody would know then. Her mother would attend to that. Already she had talked of what they must do for Irene—a bridge luncheon on Thursday, a few of the young people in on Saturday night. . . .

Beryl's heart was heavy. Her mother apparently expected Irene to pay them a prolonged visit and Irene could do so much in one short week.

"She'd open an old wound with no more compunction than she'd have in stepping on a spider," Beryl whispered to the glistening glass. Her wrist was tired with rubbing but she did not know it.

Everything depended upon how far Tommy had succeeded in forgetting Irene.

"What will I do?" she asked of the parent who had never lived for her except in fancy. "What can anyone do when something they've built with all the love and faith you have is in danger of being kicked over by a brainless little idiot?"

She found nothing to allay her fears until she went for Tommy in her bright and shining car. Tommy and her gang had lately painted it anew.

THERE was something about him that was reassuring to Beryl. In Tommy's presence it was less easy to imagine him succumbing to Irene's wiles should she be moved to amuse herself with him.

"Tommy," she said suddenly as they drove along at a rattling pace, "I'm about to turn sentimental on you. I might even grow mawkish, but I've got to say it—and it's not hokum."

"Maybe it's measles," Tommy suggested. "Well, shoot, I've had 'em."

"It's this," Beryl said, and put a hand on his arm, "this going back to school. If I never have another big moment in my life I'm satisfied . . . only . . ."

Tommy glanced at her from the corner of his eye. He could see a suspicious moisture on her lashes as for a second she lowered her lids.

"I didn't know you had such nice eyelashes," he remarked.

"Don't laugh at me, Tommy."

"No."

He reached over and put a hand on hers.

"Only . . .?" he invited.

"Only—sometimes ladders break."

Tommy's lips went together in a firm line. "Yes, I know," he said soberly, "but we'll fasten this one well at the top, and if it breaks I'll hang on to the part that stays up. I won't fall again."

Beryl was tempted to tell him then that Irene was coming, but this was their hour. She could not share it with Irene.

She made a valiant effort and was her own merry self during dinner. Tommy was truly interested in his future. They talked about it at the table. Later, when they danced, Beryl was certain he was thinking of it.

Beryl was forced to believe in platonic friendship. She laughed at herself for her vain fancies, but the tears were never far behind her laughter.

More than ever did they well up when suddenly Tommy said with a touch of boyish yearning, "You know, Beryl, I'm through with the rough stuff but it isn't quite the same. Starting out again with no one to work for—"

Beryl pitied him, but she answered with a trace of impatience, "Oh, Tommy, can't you believe there will be a girl some day? And there's pride. Just suppose you were with Pol Larkin now!"

She had spoken hastily, but when Tommy asked, "Why now?" she decided in a flash to tell him that Irene was coming home. "And I suspect," she added as he sat tight-lipped over the news, "that she'll be crazy to see how you've taken her marriage!"

Thieves Are Big-Hearted Near Rumsey

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

RUMSEY, June 10—Thieves out Rumsey way were kind-hearted and considerate if nothing else when they took a car belonging to F. W. Barber, principal of the local high school, out of the garage here late last night, and left a second machine of more expensive make in its place.

The car which Barber found in his garage next morning was without gas, had a flat tire and was minus license plates. Inside were found a pair of light racing horse shoes and a two-dollar ticket on the ponies at the Chinook Racing club Police believe the second machine to be stolen.

The serial number of the stolen machine is C. A. W. 5912, and the license is 67-402.

GRADE 11 BOYS ARE SUSPENDED

Played "Hookey," Then Cheeked Principal

Two grade 11 boys of Victoria high school were ordered suspended by the Edmonton Public School board, at a meeting held in the Civic block on Tuesday night. The suspension was in confirmation of an order issued by C. O. Hicks, principal of the school.

Mr. Hicks, saw the two boys playing "hookey" on Monday forenoon, and commandeering a car he gave chase. The boys were finally rounded up in the bush in the reserve, and when requested to go back to school, were insolent to the principal.

A warning was then given the boys by Mr. Hicks that they were liable to suspension, but the defiant answer of the boys was, in effect, "that there were other schools."

Later in the day the two youths were brought to school by their parents, but refused to apologize, whereupon Mr. Hicks suspended them pending action of the board.

Unless an apology is forthcoming from the boys, it is likely that they will not be able to take their grade 11 examinations this month.

RUMSEY TEACHERS TO GET WAGE CUT

Reductions Going Into Effect in September

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

RUMSEY, June 10.—Commencing September of this year, teachers in the local high and public school will be working on a reduced wage scale, it was announced by the board at the meeting last night. The cuts range from $300 to $25.

The board explains that it is up to the teachers to help and take the cut as other townspeople have done to enable the town to make a better showing on the ledger at the end of the year.

The reductions are as follows: Senior room, from $1,800 to $1,500 per annum, with house and fuel; junior room, from $1,150 to $1,000 per annum; janitor, from $300 to $250 per annum; and secretary-treasurer, $200 to $175 per annum. In the case of the last named the new scale goes into effect from January of this year.

This Fish Got His Man First Then Lost Out

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

BANFF, Alta., June 10—Striking viciously a twenty pound lake trout hauled nearly two hundred pounds of excited fisherman off the end of Lake Minnewanka pier near Banff Monday evening, into 20 feet of water.

The surprised angler, who withheld his name, fought with the fish in the water, while Constable James of Calgary and another manned a boat and went to the rescue. Using only a light rod, the sportsman stuck to his prize while being rescued, eventually landing the big fish.

Margaret Sproule, 13307 66 street, brought her friend Marion Horn, 13409 66 street, to the police station with her to substantiate her report that an unknown man is chasing young girls of her district. Margaret said that this man, tall and dressed in dark and raggy clothes, chased her when she was fetching the cows from pasture. Her friend claimed the same, saying the man chased her home from the R. C. College.

R. Gettis, 11943 88 street, reported the theft of his bicycle from the front verandah of his home late last night.

Achievement

When the new Waldorf-Astoria in New York wanted a sculptured figure symbolic of "The Spirit of Progress," it commissioned Miss Nina Saemundsson, young Icelandic artist to do the work. She's pictured here putting the finishing touches on the figure.

Farmers at Rumsey Are In Bad Way

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

RUMSEY, June 10. — Showers which fell over Northern Alberta missed Rumsey, Three Hills and the surrounding districts which are faced with the probability of crop failure for the third successive year. Conditions are critically serious, the early sown wheat is withering under the scorching sun, and cattle contiue to die with eating dead grass filled with dust.

There have been no rains at all locally this year, and farmers are finding it a problem to find feed and water for their stock, as pasture has been burned off the land.

Rain and plenty of it, if it comes this week, may do something to save a partial crop for local farmers.

Theft Conviction Quashed On Appeal

Finding that even admitting all the evidence of the crown and disbelieving that of accused, the case was not strong enough to warrant a conviction, the appeal court on Wednesday, in a written judgment by Chief Justice Horace Harvey and concurred in by Justices A. H. Clarke, O. R. Mitchell and H. W. Lunney, allowed the appeal of Peter Koriney from a conviction of theft by His Honor Judge J. L. Crawford. The conviction is therefore quashed.

Koriney origanally was charged with arson in setting fire to a store building at Thorhild and of stealing $28 from the cash register of the same building.

On being brought to trial before Judge Crawford, accused was acquitted on the arson charge, but convicted on that of theft.

"The evidence is purely circumstantial," writes Chief Justice Harvey.

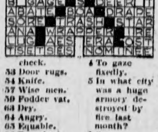
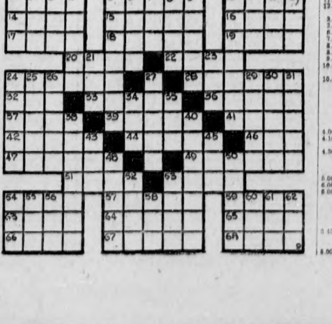
YESTERDAY'S ANSWER





PRICE CUT IN TRACTOR OILS IS ANNOUNCED

Sales Tax Precludes Slash in Gasoline Companies State

Reductions in the price of tractor kerosene and tractor lubricating oils throughout the prairie provinces, effective June 10, have been announced by the Imperial Oil Company Ltd. and the British American Oil Company. No reduction in the price of gasoline has been made, official announcements declaring that the increased sales tax just announced precluded this. Recent recessions in the price of crude oil and a desire to help the western farmers are given as the reasons for the announced reductions.

IS LOWEST YET

The announcement for the Imperial Oil Company Ltd., was made by John McNeil, director in charge of marketing, who stated that the new price will average 16.3 cents, the lowest at which tractor lubricating oils have ever been sold. The reduction on kerosene is 5 cents a gallon, while the reduction on tractor lubricating oils is 15 per cent.

The announcement for the British American Oil Company was made by H. H. Birch, local manager, on instructions from Eastern headquarters. Mr. Birch stated that the reduction was being made to benefit Western farmers owing to the present financial conditions.

The Imperial Oil Company's statement, announcing the reductions, after stating that they amounted to the five cents a gallon on tractor kerosene and 15 per cent on tractor lubricating oil, read as follows:—

"This reduction is possible because of recent recessions in the price of crude oil upon which the cost of all petroleum products is predicated. As this recession in crude oil prices would permit a reduction of only a fraction of a cent on gasoline prices, which it would be difficult to extend to the consumer on account of the increased sales tax, it has been decided to extend the entire benefit to the Western farmer who is a large user of kerosene and lubricating oil for power farming equipment."

HARASSED FARMER

"Unfavorable crop conditions and low prices still harass the prairie farmer and the decision to reduce prices of tractor kerosene and tractor lubricating oil was reached in the hope that it would enable him to lower his operating costs and thus make a larger margin upon the season's operations."

Other oil companies are expected to follow the lead thus set according to local oil men and a general reduction is looked for in the next few days.

People Vacate To Streets to Feel for Rain

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

KINSELLA, June 10.—So urgent is the need for moisture locally, that when a drop of rain was reported to have fallen here Tuesday morning, people poured from their houses and places of business to stand with upturned faces and hands on the street feeling for the alleged rain fall.

However, if any rain fell, it was only the first drop that fell on some optimistic citizen who spread the news.

Crops are standing up fairly well in the dryness, heat and high winds, but growth is at a standstill.

Encouraged by the continued dry weather, cutworms are reported to have made huge inroads in the gardens of the local citizens.

On The Air

WINNIPEG, June 10—Radio listeners in all parts of Canada will have an opportunity on Thursday night, June 11, of hearing two outstanding Maritime artists, Mrs. Doris Baker, soprano of Lunenburg, and Mr. Allen McK. Reid, organist, who are featured in the regular Thursday night broadcast of the Canadian National Railways originating this week in the "Nova Scotia," the company's hotel at Halifax. Mrs. Baker is recognised as the leading soprano of the Maritime Provinces and this will be the first occasion on which her voice has been carried across the continent on the Canadian National Railways chain. Mr. Reid is already well known to Canadians for his organ recitals, broadcast on previous occasions from the same hotel.

The program will go on the air from the "Nova Scotian" at 8 p.m., central standard time, and will be carried across Canada over the Canadian National Railways network of 17 stations.

REDDY FOX SNEAKS AWAY

To sneak away is to steal away trying to keep out of sight of everybody and is usually done only by those who for some reason or other are ashamed to be seen. Just as soon as Reddy Fox could see after Jimmy Skunk had thrown that terrible perfume of his in Reddy's face to pay him for rolling him down hill in the old barrel he started for the Green Forest. He wanted to get away by himself. But he didn't trot with his head up and his big plumey tail carried proudly as is usual with him. No, indeed. Instead, he hung his head and his handsome tail was dropped between his legs, and he was the very picture of shame. You see that terrible perfume which Jimmy Skunk had thrown at him clung to his red coat and he knew that he couldn't get rid of it, not for a long time anyhow. And he knew, too, that wherever he went his neighbors would hold their noses and make fun of him and that no one would have anything to do with him. So he sneaked away cross the Green Meadows towards the Green Forest and he felt too sick and mean and unhappy to even be angry with Sammy Jay, who was making fun of him and saying that he had got no more than he deserved.

Poor Reddy. He didn't know what to do or where to go. He knew that it would not be long before all the little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows would know what had happened to him. Sammy Jay would see to that. He knew just how they would point at him and make fun of him. He would never hear the last of it. He felt as if he never, never would be able to hold his head and his tail up again. Every few minutes he stoped to roll over and over on the ground, trying to get rid of that dreadful perfume.

When he reached the Green Forest he hurried over to the Laughing Brook to wash out his eyes. It was just his luck to have Billy Mink come along while he was doing this. Billy didn't need to be told what had happened. "Phew!" he exclaimed, holding on to his nose. Then he turned and hurried beyond the reach of that terrible perfume. There he stopped and made fun of Reddy Fox and said all the provoking things he could think of. Reddy just took no notice at all. He felt too miserable to quarrel.

"Phew!" he exclaimed, holding on to his nose.

After he had washed his face he felt better. Water wouldn't take away the awful smell, but it did take away the smart from his eyes. Then he tried to plan what to do next.

"The only thing I can do is to get as far away from everybody as I can," thought he. "I guess I'll have to go up to the Old Pasture to live for a while."

So he started for the Old Pasture, keeping as much out of sight as possible. On the way he remembered that Old Man Coyote lived there. Of course it would never do to go near Old Man Coyote's home, for if he smelled that awful perfume and discovered that he, Reddy, was the cause of it he would certainly drive him out of the Old Pasture, and then where could he go? So Reddy went to the loneliest part of the Old Pasture and crept into an old house that he and Granny had dug there long ago, when they had been forced to live in the Old Pasture in the days when Farmer Brown's Boy and Bowser the Hound had hunted them for stealing chickens. There he stretched himself out and was perfectly miserable.

"It wouldn't be so bad if I really had been to blame, but I wasn't. I didn't know Jimmy Skunk was in that barrel and I didn't mean to start it rolling down the hill anyway," he muttered. "It was all an accident and—" He stopped and into his yellow eyes crept a look of suspicion. "I wonder," said he, slowly. "if Peter Rabbit knew that Jimmy Skunk was there and planned to get me into all this trouble. I wonder."

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

HERO WORSHIP IS GOOD FOR CHILDREN

But Mrs. Eldred warns mothers against asking children to imitate playmates.

So many of the mothers' mistakes are made in ignorance, unconscious of the results. We have an almost universal habit of setting up the "good" child in the family as a model for the others. It's so natural to say:

"If you could only be like Paul. See how nicely he plays with his wagon. He isn't hanging on mother all day, asking her to play."

"Shane, shane. I know you took that banana! How can you lie to me. Brother never does. I can always depend upon brother's word."

"Poor Ellen! She is so slow. Sissie is so quick. But Ellen can't concentrate, poor dear. Isn't it queer how two children can be so different?"

But why go on illustrating? There are many mothers who at this moment are guiltily conscious that they have been doing just that. They thought it an excellent way to prod the child into more desirable behavior. As a matter of fact they have to admit that it hasn't been effective, but they can't see why a child wouldn't want to be like some more admired child.

PROVIDE ADULT HEROES

Children do not, however, want to immitate the "model." Instead they are stifled by a sense of inferiority if a pattern is pointed out for them to follow. They accept the parent's estimate of their ability. They have no idea that it is within their power to change.

Mother says she can't concentrate. Mother says he's poky. Mother says he lies, and brother never does. Children don't choose to be that way. That is the way they are, and once having accepted our judgment of them they go on being that way forever. Children are molded by circumstances. If they are slow, then find out why. What is causing one child to lag when others hurry? Does he need more help, more inspiration? What use to say some one else is fast and he is slow? That does nothing to alter the conditions which have made him slow. It fastens the label "slow" upon him.

Children do need correction. They do need setting on different paths. It should not be effected by campjaring them with other children. If you want to set up models of conduct for a child let these be adults, whom he admires. Let these models be public heroes or fictional ones, not children on the same level with himself. That pjuts him in another class. That makes him jealous and bitter of the model's accomplishments, it doesn't spur him on to want to be like the other child. To compare a child to his own disadvantage with his neighbor or brother or sister just arouses emotions which stifle further effort. He feels them to be superior beings and he a poor worm, unable to measure up with them. The result is decreased instead of increased effort.

Husband: I can't eat this stuff.

Wife: Never mind, dear. I have some lovely recipes for making up leftovers.

Husband: In that case I'll eat it now.—Passing Show.

LATE TRADING ERASES GAINS ON WHEAT MARKET

Canadian Press

WINNIPEG, Man., June 10.—Early gains of more than one cent a bushel were wiped out in the final hour of trading on the wheat market here today. At the close prices were unchanged to ⅝ cents lower, July finishing at 60⅝; October 62; and December at 63 to 63⅛.

Late morning reports of good rains in the Saskatchewan dry belt brought about the sharp reversal from the high marks of early morning. At the start today the bullish Canadian and United States government crop reports, issued Tuesday, influenced the higher-price trend.

Trade was active most of the session, with spreaders buying Winnipeg futures against sales in the Chicago pit in fairly good volume.

The cash wheat and coarse grain markets were generally featureless.

N. Y. CENTRAL LEADS RALLY AT NEW YORK

Associated Press

NEW YORK, N.Y., June 10.—The stock market shook off early irregularity today, developing an inclusive rally in the afternoon trading under leadership of New ork Central, which rose more than four points in response to declaration of the regular dividend. Allied Chemical, McKeesport, Tin Plate and Western Union were up five. U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, North American, Electric Power and Light, and United Corporation gain about two. Chemicals were particularly strong. Trading was quiet and total sales were well under 2,000,000 shares.

Declaration of the regular New York Central dividend against expectations, in many quarters, of another reduction cleared away part of the unsettlement and the disclosure that the drop in U. S. Steel's unfilled tonnage during May was no worse than had been estimated gave a better tone to spirits.

Trading in stocks was largely professional. Public participation in the market has not yet made itself felt and brokerage houses report that investors are still on the sidelines.

Experts Testify Most of Them Far Too High for Present Value

Involving an assessment of $1,672,000 and total tax payments of over $140,000 annually, the appeal of the Hudson's Bay Company against the assessment of the Company's property, commenced in the District Court before Judge Crawford on Wednesday morning.

The appeal is highly important, for in addition to the amounts involved, any change made in the company's assessment will have a direct effect upon the assessment of other surrounding property in the city, as the charter specifically stated that assessments are to be fixed according to the "fair actual value of the property" and also in respect to "its relation to other surrounding property." Further the Hudson's Bay Co., so it is understood, has the intention of taking the appeal through to the highest courts if found necessary.

C. F. Newell, K.C., and J. R. McIntosh, land commissioner, appeared for the Hudson's Bay Company, and G. B. O'Connor, instructed for by City Solicitor Bown, is acting for the city together with the City Assessor, T. Walker.

BIG PROPERTY

The Hudson's Bay property consists of 354 lots south of 108th avenue, assessed at $442,810; 383 lots included in the golf course assessed at $101,200 and 1,468 lots north of 108th avenue, assessed at $1,120,000.

Three expert witnesses are appearing on either side, in addition to the officials of the company and city.

All are well-known as having been engaged in the real estate and valuation business for a long time, and include: H. Milton Martin, A. Whyte and Larry Higgins for the Hudson's Bay Company and J. Kenwood, S. H. Smith and W. A. Wilkins for the city.

In his evidence H. Milton Martin said that he had gone over practically all the company's property in the city and in his opinion it is assessed from five to 50 per cent too high. Mr. Martin cited different lots in the closer-in property and gave the individual reduction he considers will represent their true value. The land lying east of the golf course, said the witness, is worth $500 per acre as agricultural land, nothing more. There are no streets opened, the only graded ro adrunning through the section being Kingsway.

SEEKS FAIR VALUE

Asked what basis he had used for his valuations Mr. Martin said that he had endeavored to fix a fair actual value under ordinary conditions.

His Honor—Do they exist today?

Witness—No.

Mr. O'Connor cross-examined witness as to the prices quoted in one of the old Hudson's Bay Company's land sale catalogues published during the time of the land boom in the city, and argued that these prices were revelant to the case, as they established the fact these prices had been asked.

Mr. Newell protested against the catalogue, which he said had to do with sales taking place 12 years ago, being accepted as evidence, and His Honor said that he considered the catalogue was quite irrevalent, and he could not accept it as evidence.

"For instance," said His Honor, "If we were dealing with the case of a railway accident it would be quite as feasible to introduce in evidence conditions as they existed 20 years ago."

The testimony of A. Whyte, and Larry Higgins was also to the effect that the property is over-assessed.

For the city, Mr. Wilkins contended that the land on Portage avenue compares very favorably with property in Norwood and Inglewood. He argued that it is more centrally situated.

The case is proceeding.

Western Manager Hudson's Bay Co. Is Visiting City

P. G. Parker, western manager for the Hudson's Bay Company stores, with headquarters at Winnipeg, reached Edmonton Wednesday morning for the purpose of inspecting the local store.

Mr. Parker is at present making a periodical tour of the western branches, and while here conferred with local officials of the company Wednesday. It is expected that he will leave the city Thursday.

The departmental store official was registered at the Macdonald hotel with R. Douglas, secretary.

JAIL RATHER THAN CITY'S RELIEF MUSH

Porridge Palls on Nova Scotian So Mayor Helps Him Out

"Well, I can't eat it, and would rather go to jail," protested a tall, well-set young Nova Scotian at the city hall on Tuesday afternoon. He was talking about the city relief porridge.

"A young fellow like you doesn't want to go to prison for a thing like that," said Mayor Douglas.

Just then big Sergeant Dan Fraser of the city police force, opened the door.

"Sergeant," said the Mayor, "here is a young fellow who says that he wants to go to jail. He wants something to eat.

"You take him with you, give him supper and bed for the night and let him go."

The Mayor also assured the young fellow that he will be looked after with the other single men who are receiving civic relief.

The young Canadian was one of about 50 or 60 men who trooped up the city hall stairs to the Mayor's office on Monday afternoon, and complained that they could not get any relief. They wanted to eat. Some of them also said they had been told they would get nothing because they did not belong to the city.

The mayor explained that the registration took time and in the meantime the porridge kitchen was still open.

"You had better kill me quick, then," said one middle-aged foreigner. "I sick all last night through eating the porridge. It raw, full of lumps, ugh!"

The Mayor explained that the men will get attention in time and he subsequently gave instructions that no man was to be told that he cannot get anything. If the city does not care for them the province will do so.

Fred Ungarian, of 12020 50 street, reported the theft of his bicycle from his home on the night of June 7, and later seeing two young boys carrying the frame minus pedals and wheels down the street. Police state that the two boys claimed to have found the frame in a nearby dump.
